INVOLVEMENT

The First Day

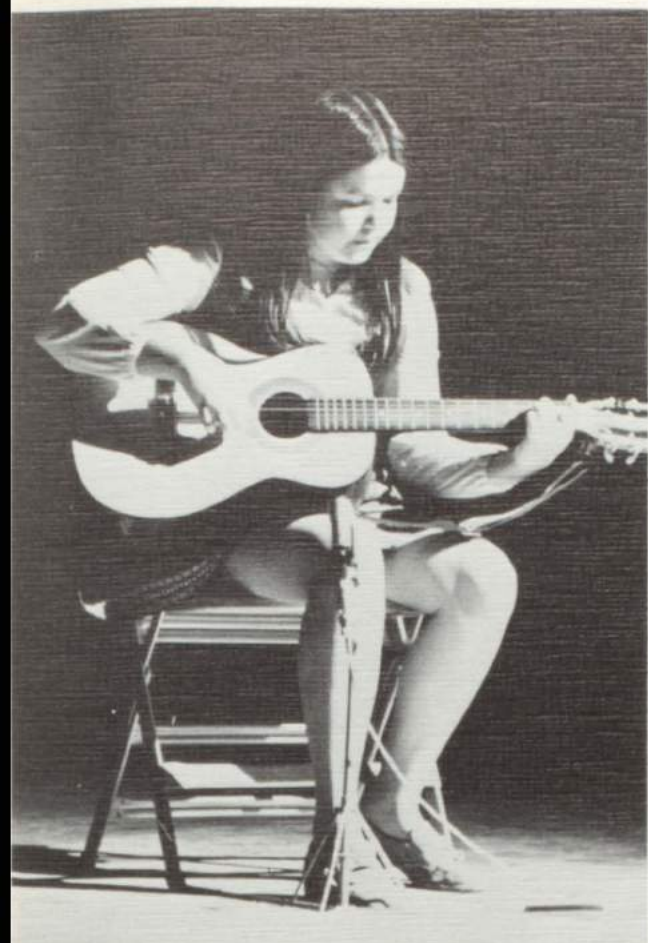

On November 3, 1972, Dr. Earl Reum spoke to the students of CFHS at a mandatory assembly in the gymnasium. For a total of one hour and forty-five minutes, Dr. Reum laughed at his own jokes, performed magic tricks, and spoke to us of love, brotherhood and spiritual advancement.

No one was bored; most were deeply affected by the "dumpy, dirty old man from Denver", who was so sincere and so warm a human being he allowed us to share his vision. At the conclusion of his final speech, Dr. Reum received a spontaneous standing ovation.

The spirit of the day carried throughout. In small groups, we learned more about each other, cooperation, and problem solving. Peopleization gave us new perspectives on old questions.

The greatest changes, though, were the little, less glaring ones. Some new friendships, a few secret tears, and lots of beaming faces which haven't quite faded yet. No greater tribute can be given to Dr. Earl Reum and the organizers of The First Day.

Interest And Involvement

Students in the high school found new ways to share their interests and develop their talents. Numerous mini-assemblies by both students and outside groups brought laughs, admiration and cultural atmosphere. In addition to traditional events such as Career Day, the boys' gym show, and student playlets, the choir viewed an operetta and a singing group, students performed concerts in the library, and individual classes viewed speakers ranging from a Yoga enthusiast to a politician.

Inter - Club Council

Laying a foundation for future years occupied meetings of the Inter Club Council. Procedures were devised to open channels between the students, the clubs, and the administration. Systems were created for the chartering of new clubs, the scheduling of activities and the synchronization of club meetings. Organization became the key word in the hope that in years to come the school could involve the greatest number of students with the least amount of conflict. Spurred by enthusiasm and slowed only by its own organizational problems, the I.C.C. has grown into an efficiently operating body.

An offshoot from the Student Council, The Commons Activities Board had as its main goal, making the Commons an enjoyable place to go. As in the Student Council, relevancy was a key question and this enterprising group of students arrived at the ultimate answer. . . food. The institution of the breakfast line achieved its goal as more and more people tossed aside the pleasures of the library for a doughnut and a cup of hot chocolate.

Student Council

The Student Council worked hard and long to organize itself into a functional body with two main goals: student involvement and relevancy. Council scored a major success in The First Day. Student involvement? (Everyone had to attend.) Relevancy? (Who can't relate to a day with no classes?) In earnest, the Student Council achieved many mile-stones and the school has felt the impact that a student governing board can promote.

Future Teachers Of America

Students who see themselves someday returning to school (as instructors) make up the rolls of the F.T.A. Here, before leaving High School, they learn the glamorous aspects of a teaching career: grading spelling, checking addition, and reviewing lesson plans. Ignoring these drudgeries, F.T.A. members claim a sincere feeling of personal reward when they realize that due to their efforts someone has learned.

As far as anyone knows, the Latin Club does not concern itself with languages at all. Instead, in their rather short meetings, the club schedules bake sales to earn money and plans banquets to spend it. Despite the endlessness of this cycle, the members all seem content, except the vice-president, who just never seems to make the meetings.

Prism

Postponed meetings, confusing maps, and a lack of attendance hampered the Prism staff this year. And as usual, a lacok of good material was the over-riding problem. With many contributions from the staff members, Sue's help in para-phrasing at the meetings, and the constant help of advisor(s) the Prism staff managed once again to create a literary masterpiece.

Trying to put out a readable newspaper every two weeks can be a real challenge, when you consider editorial meetings, deadline meetings and the endless paste-ups. Pictures that look fine at the meetings but print darkly in the paper, articles that are never turned in, and the ever present search for advertisers all serve to frustrate the staffers. The Lantern, under new leadership and staff, managed to meet these problems and presented the students with a newspaper of broad scope and interest.

Locating hundreds of pictures that somehow no one has seen, writing copy and trying to meet deadlines is what occupies the time of Zenith workers. When all the materials are together it is the job of the staff members to organize an intelligible section from a few stray ideas and fifty seemingly unrelated pictures. But Zenith is more than hard work. It's meetings till one o'clock, old Bogart movies, dinners at McDonalds, and trying to calm down Barb. Sometimes we wonder if we're all kind of weird; how on earth can confusion, frustration, and mass hysteria actually be fun*

American Field Service

Known for its slide shows, cancelled dances, and potluck dinners, the A.F.S. this year entertained three foreign students: Linda Angus of New Zealand, Hakan Hamburger from Sweden and Peter Vasilievic from Yugoslavia. Occasional problems did arise intermittantly, especially in the spelling of last names, the pronunciation of first names, and the largest problem of trying to convince someone that they sound Australian.

Monday Night Gymnastics

Monday Night Gymnastics has been a time when anyone may try their hand on the unevens, test their balance on the beam, or risk a nervous breakdown on the vault. Mrs. Wilcox taught us the fundamentals of dance in group warm-up, and while we may never be the New York Civic Ballet or the United States Olympic Team, we laughed and had a good time!

Girls Athletic Association

In addition to running girls intramurals, the G.A.A. schedules many activities for girls in Chagrin. Among such events are bowling in winter, campouts in the spring and canoe trips whenever possible. New activities are always being discussed and the G.A.A. hopes in the future that it can involve even more girls in the events that it schedules.

Photography Club

The Photography Club is open to anyone who owns a camera or is otherwise interested in the art of taking pictures. Even with this lack of restrictions on membership the meetings are seldom crowded. Those who do join spend their time photographing anyone or anything they see. The results are interesting to see: artistic photographs of people's backs, muddy fields and discarded sweatsocks.

Ski Club

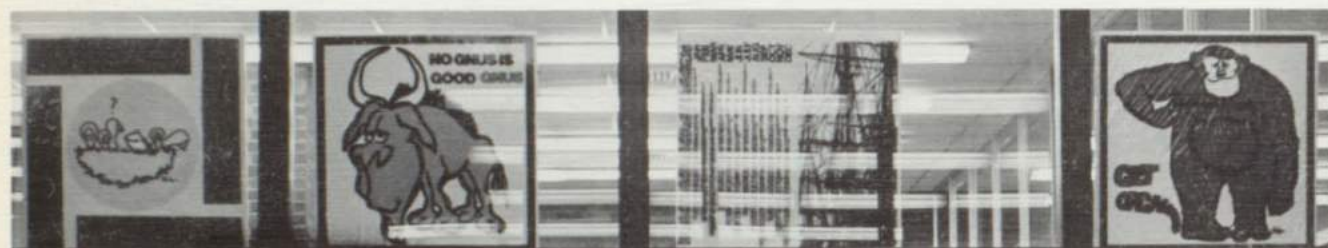

Favored once again with the Cleveland climate, the Ski Club could have appropriately changed its name to the Weather Watchers Club. This trusty band remained on call and jumped into action at the first sign of snow. One day the snow was falling, the air was brisk and the spirits of the skiers soared. Then to the astonishment of all, the P.A. barked "Due to poor conditions there will be no skiing. . . ."

Key Club

Between the great Bonfire, staining the gazebo and other fun activities like eating with the Kiwanis and saying the pledge of allegiance the Key Club sure stays busy. Even when Ogden was late Mr. Fram was always there to liven things up. With all the meetings and activities, the Key Club could not have possibly known about the pumpkin roll.

Hockey

Hockey has never been called a gentleman's sport; it is rugged, brutal and punishing. For these reasons, a group of not so dainty Chagrinites formed a Hockey Club. Despite an uneventful season (only one concussion), it looks as if the popular winter sport is here to stay.

Competitive Spirit

Spirit has long been a valued characteristic of school life and Chagrin holds a large amount of this quality. Enthusiasm peaks at every sporting event and attendance grows constantly. Spurred by a Cheerleading squad that placed third in the State Cheering Contest, Chagrin keeps its spirit in victory and defeat creating a unity that connects all factions of the school with a common bond.

Homecoming

Beating Orange and then watching it three more times on TV certainly helped the atmosphere on the homecoming weekend, but it is the small things that make memories. A surprised Julie McDermott, with a crown that just wouldn't stay on, the appearance of a camera man at all the wrong moments, and on Saturday the excellent music of Amblesides made Homecoming '72.

Look Homeward Angel

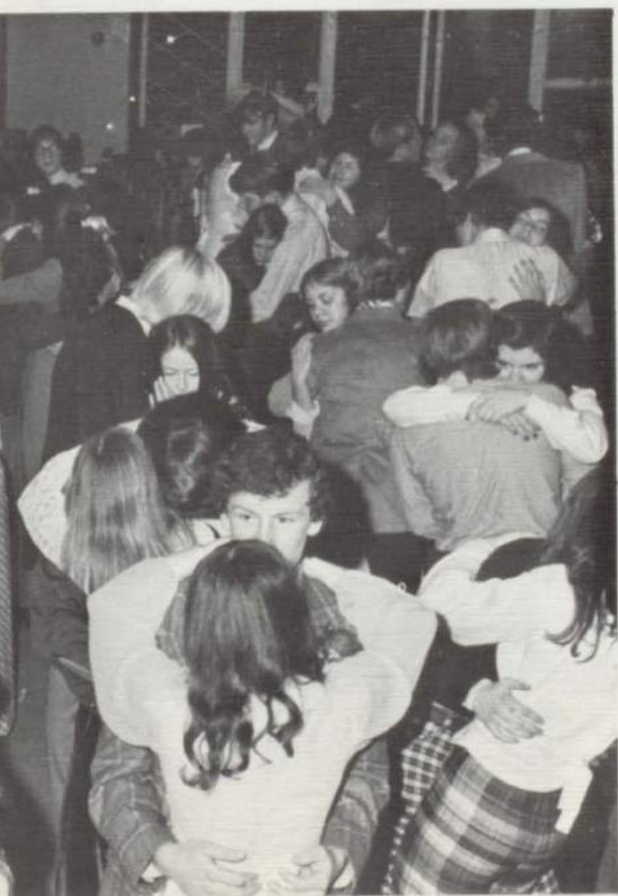

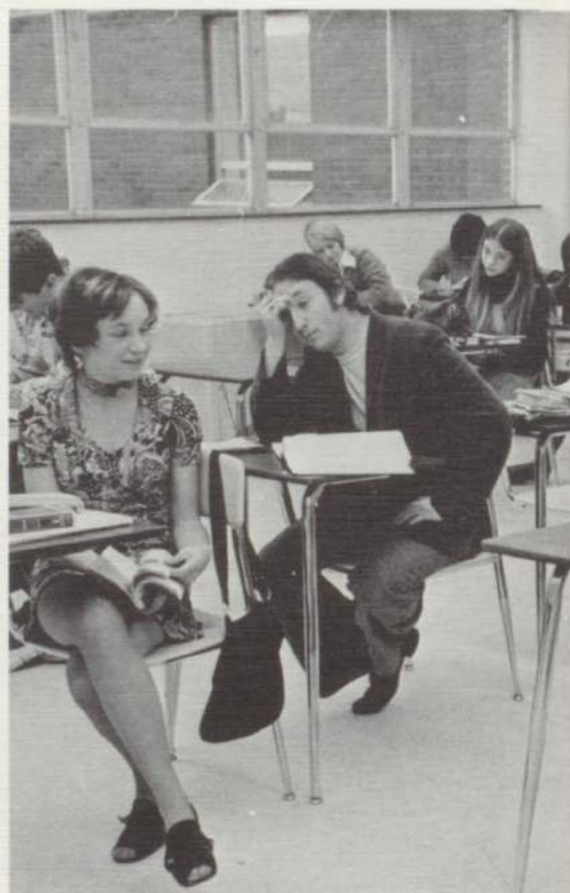

Christmas Formal

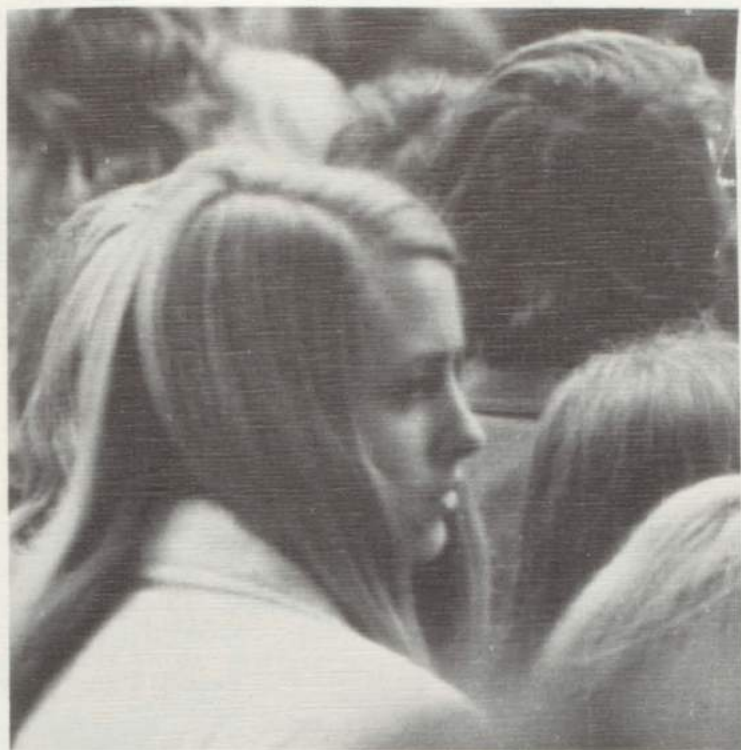

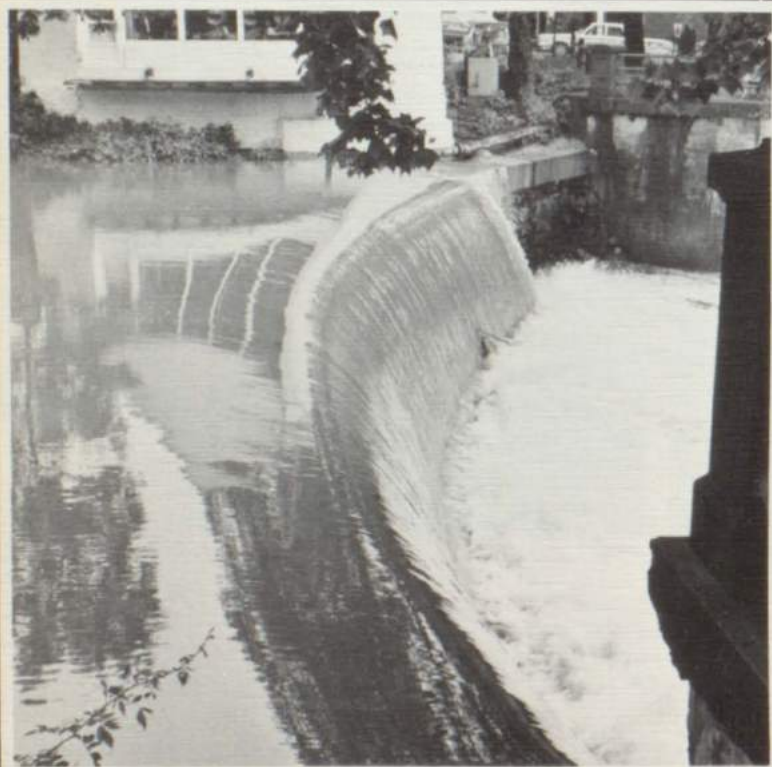

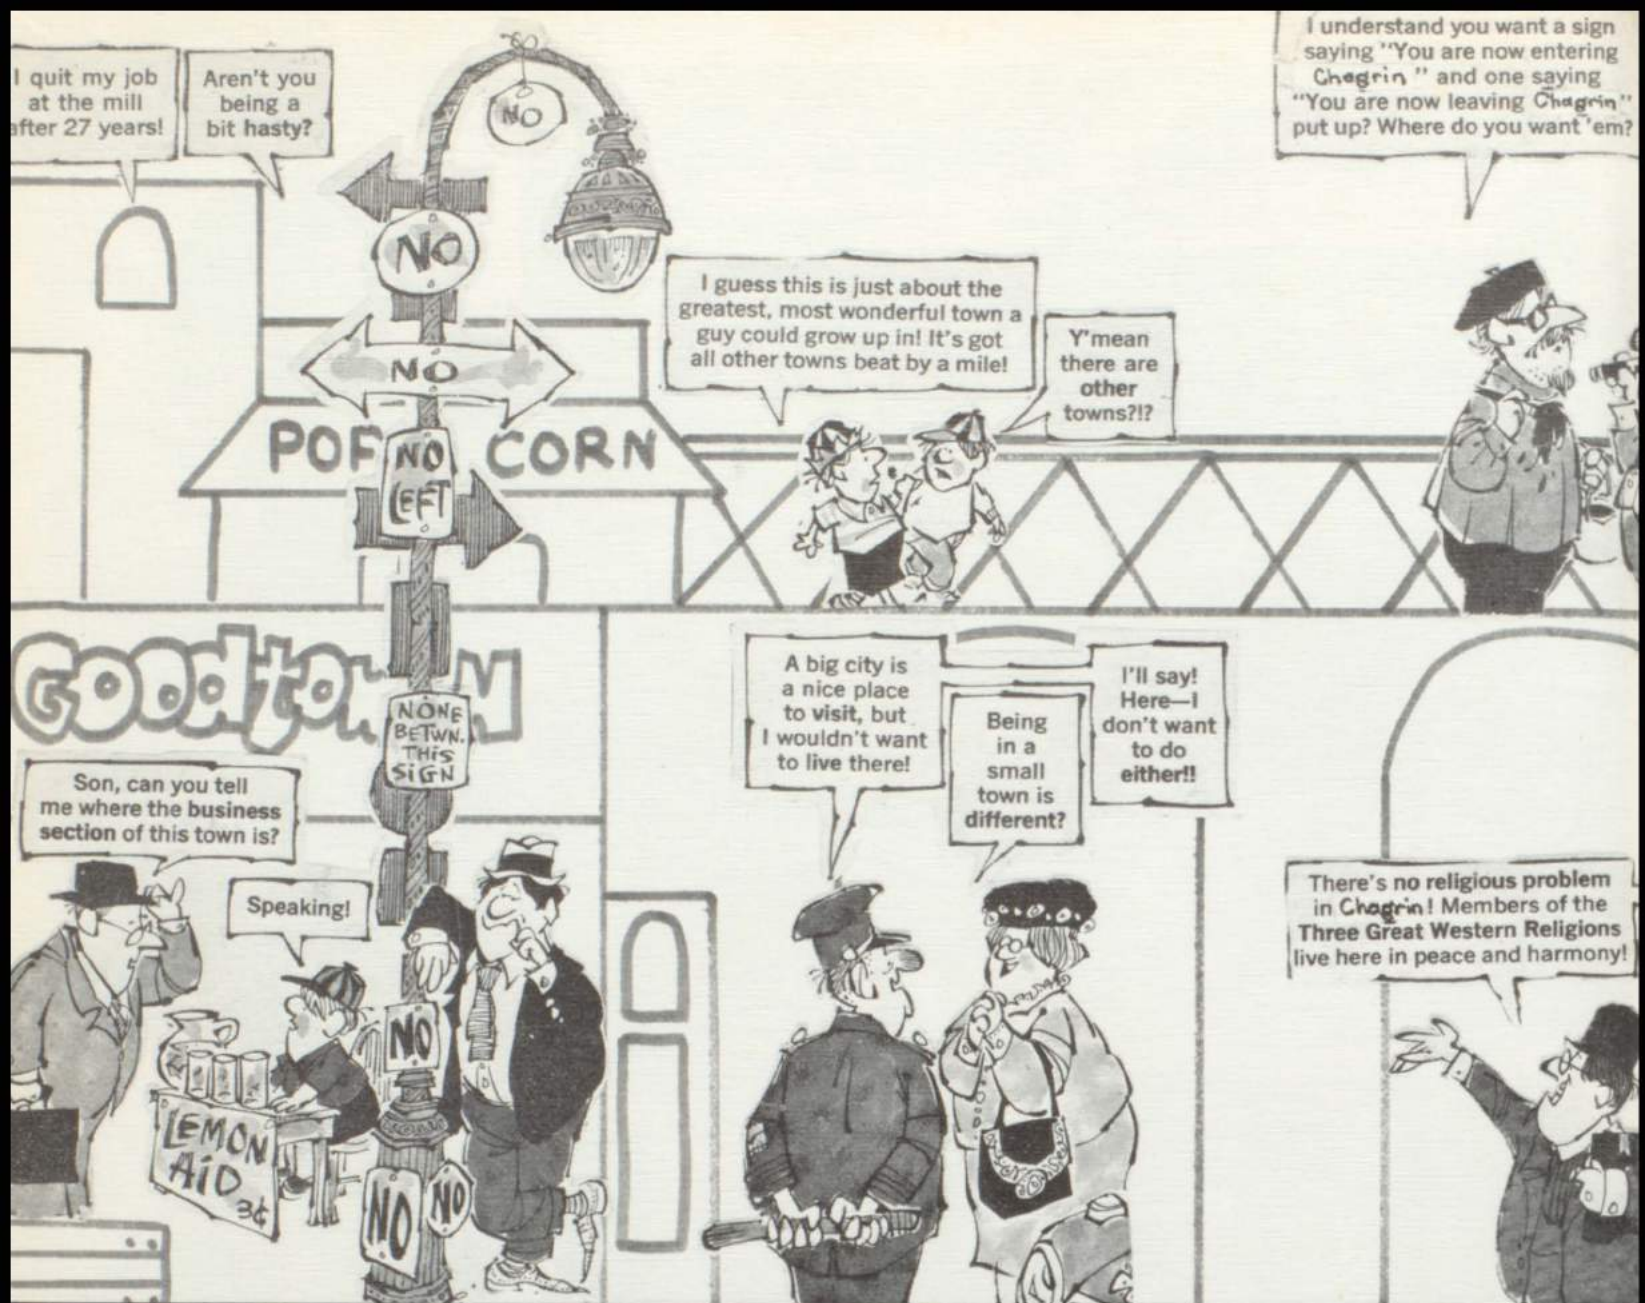

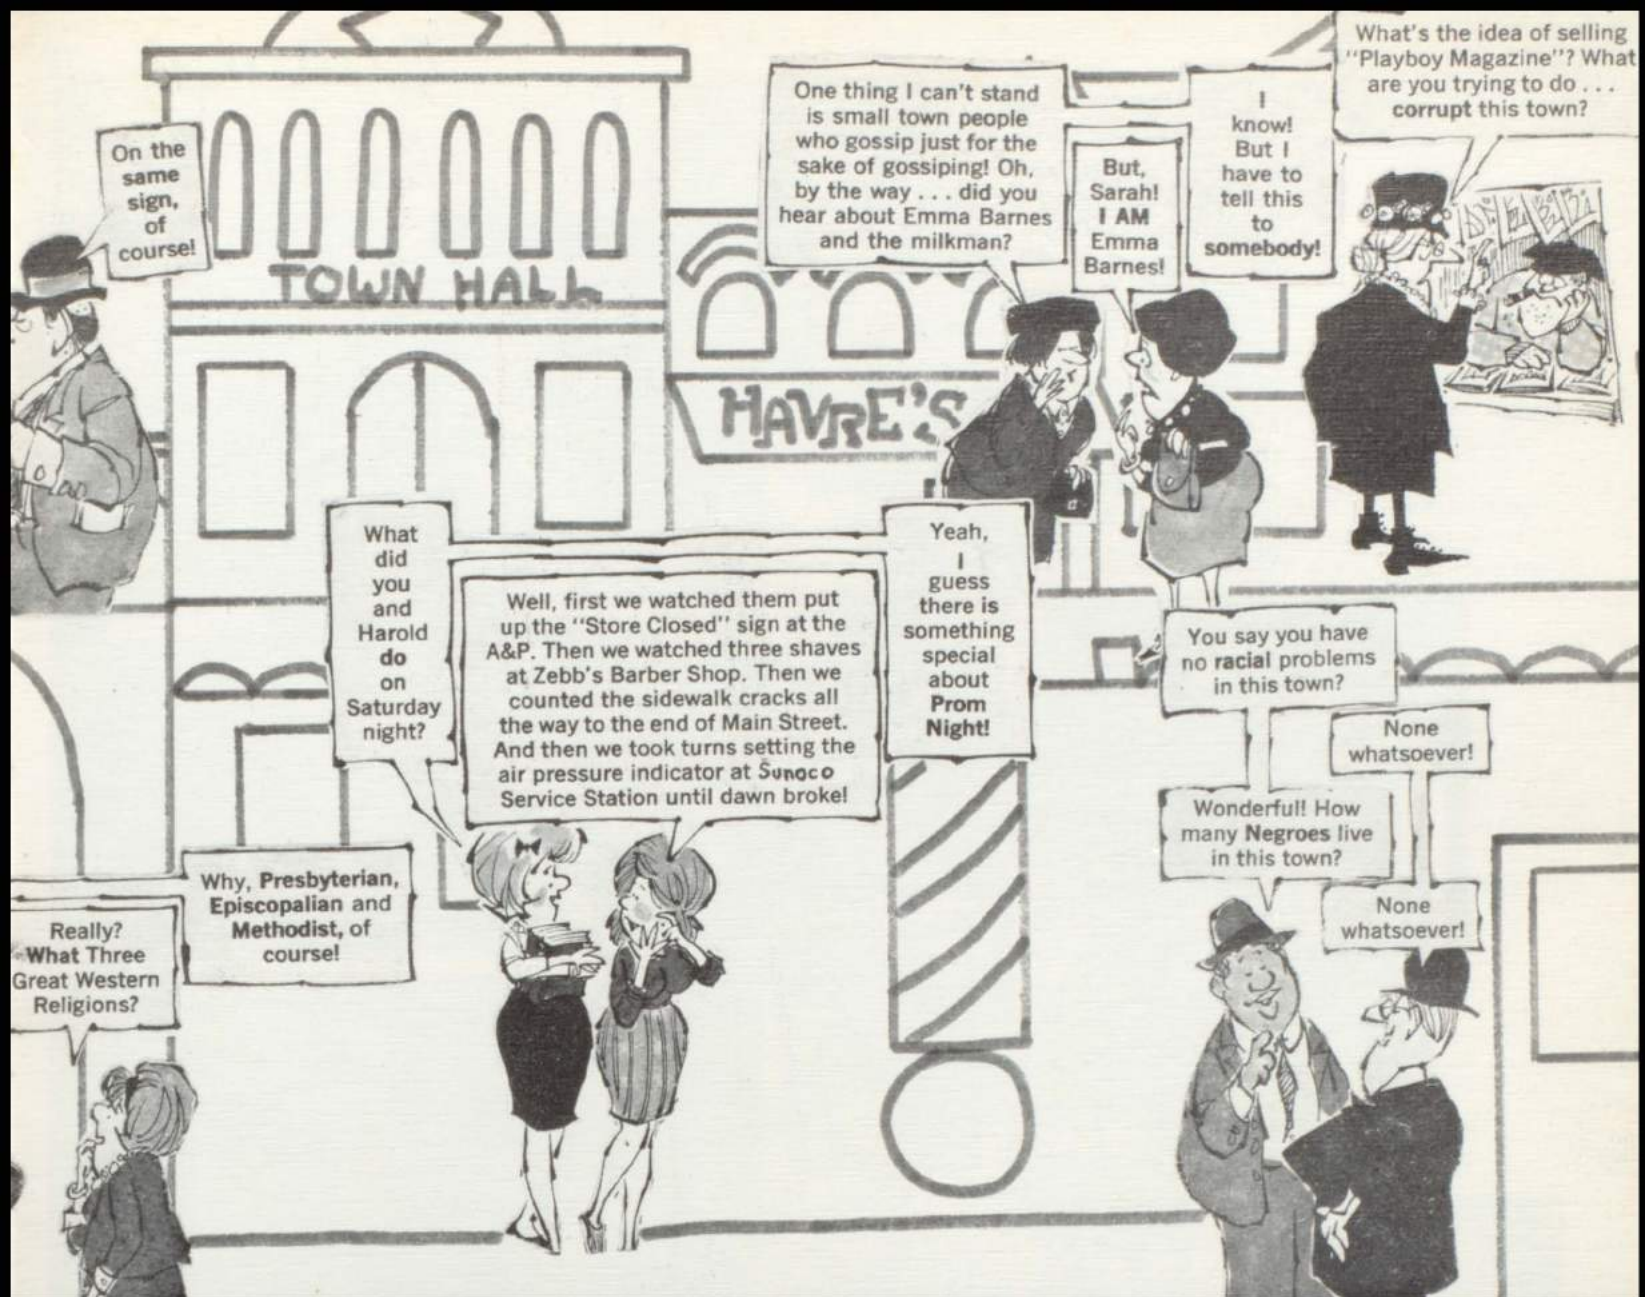

Day old flowers and rushed preparations marked the Christmas Formal, the first school dance ever held on a Sunday. In spite of the snow and cold, Ambelsides once again performed for a full crowd. A.F.S. worked tirelessly, making murals, attaching stars and setting lighting to create an atmosphere that perfectly mirrored the feelings of the evening. The event climaxed with the crowning of a never-dancing king and an ever-blushing queen.

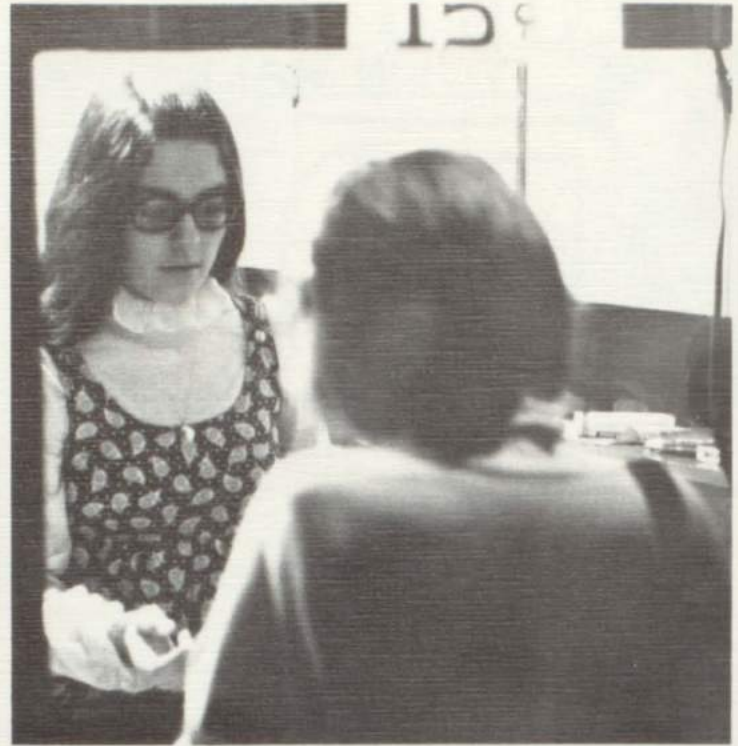

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Cultural Activities

Students from the high school have taken an active role in local productions of performing and fine arts. Some take classes at the Valley Art Center and participate in art shows there, while other students have participated in Chagrin Valley Little Theater's shows by acting, ushering, crewing and serving refreshments. The Fairmount Art Center, as well as various youth groups, has also involved Chagrin students with the arts. And, of course, the annual student art show and the Yuletide presentation of the Messiah have involved more students than ever.

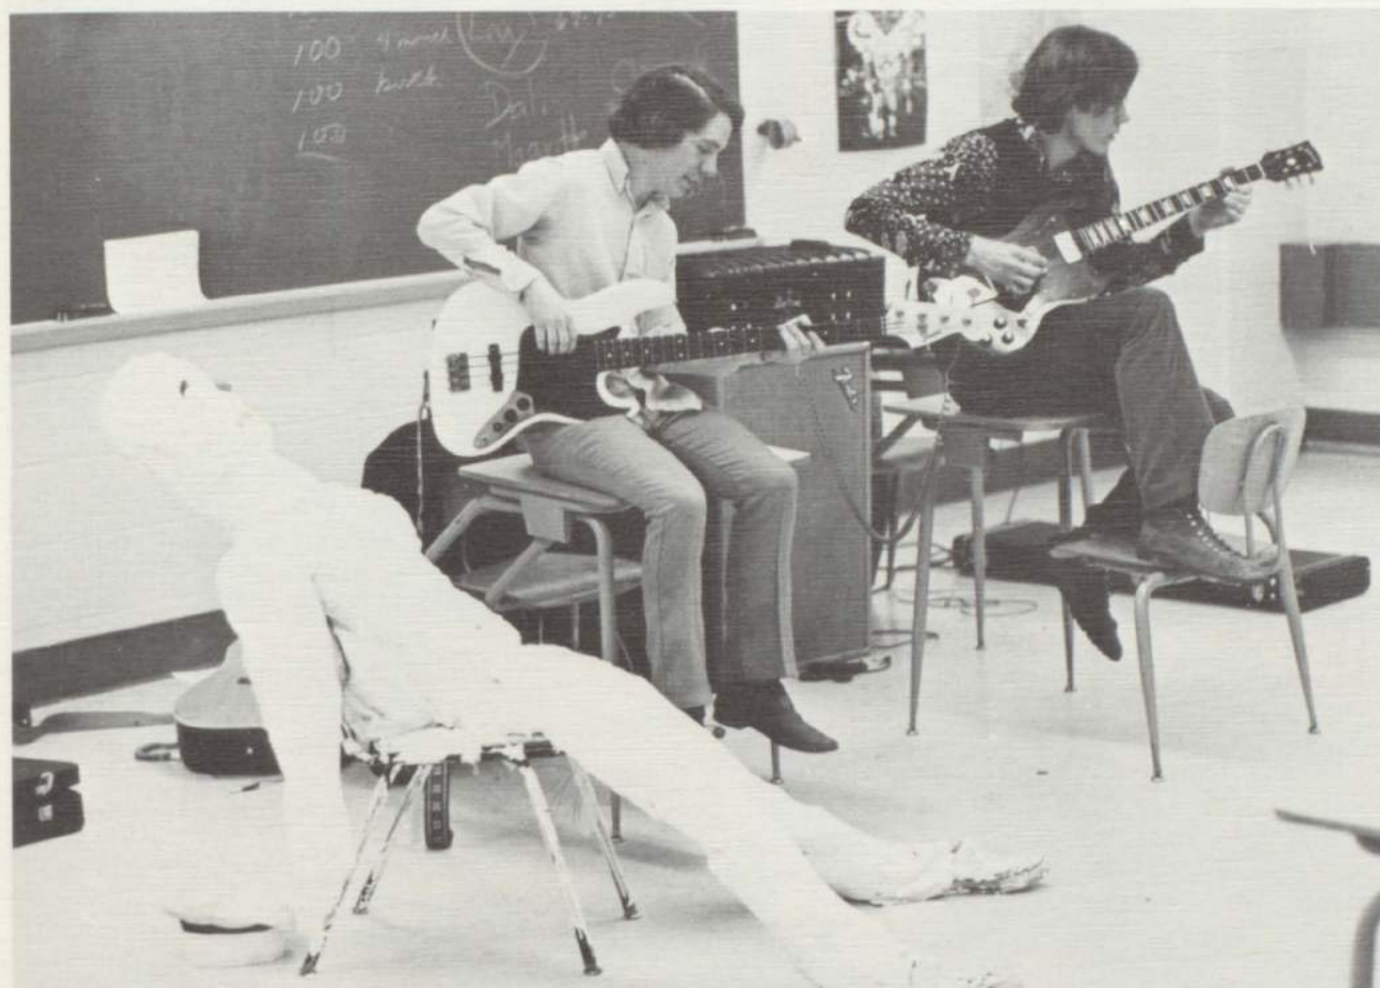

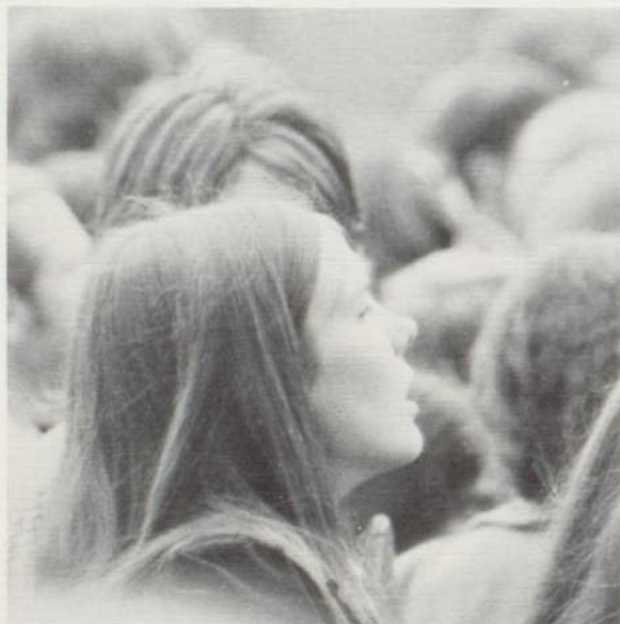

Religious Groups

Becoming an active part of one's religion required much more than just church on Sunday. Area youth groups have sponsored retreats, hosted such individuals as a speaker on Indian rights, and in one case performed a miracle play.

Nichiren Shoshu, a growing belief in Chagrin, has increasingly involved its members and can boast of its own rock group, The Ohio Morning Sun.

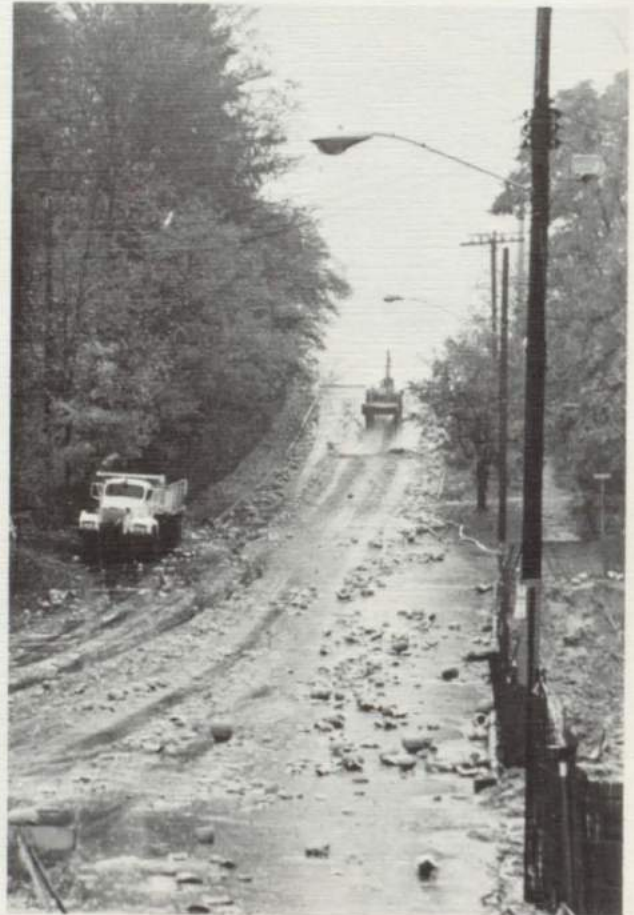

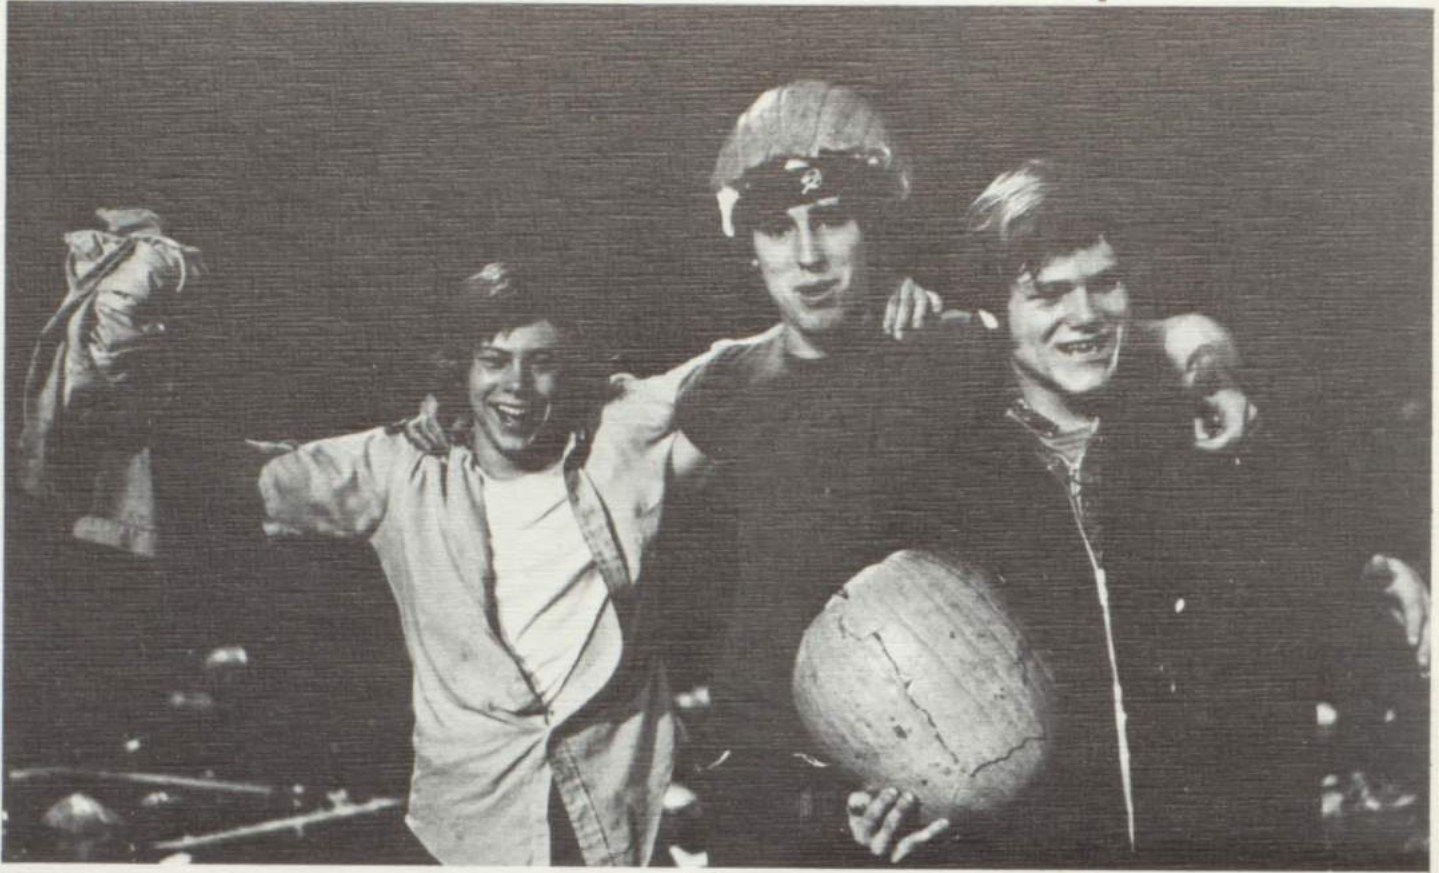

The 18-year-old vote marked an awakening interest in politics for many CFHS students. For the first time in history we had seniors voting in the presidential election, and most were anxious to be well informed. Through Ms. Kayser's Government class students were able to hear Sen. McGovern speak at Cleveland State, and band members and other students went to Aurora to greet President Nixon's motorcade. Also sponsored by the Government classes was a presidential debate with Councilman Jon Salerno representing Nixon and local Democrat Doug Smith debating for McGovern. Other students formed and expressed their political opinions outside of class, and a few were active campaign workers.

The Townie Scene

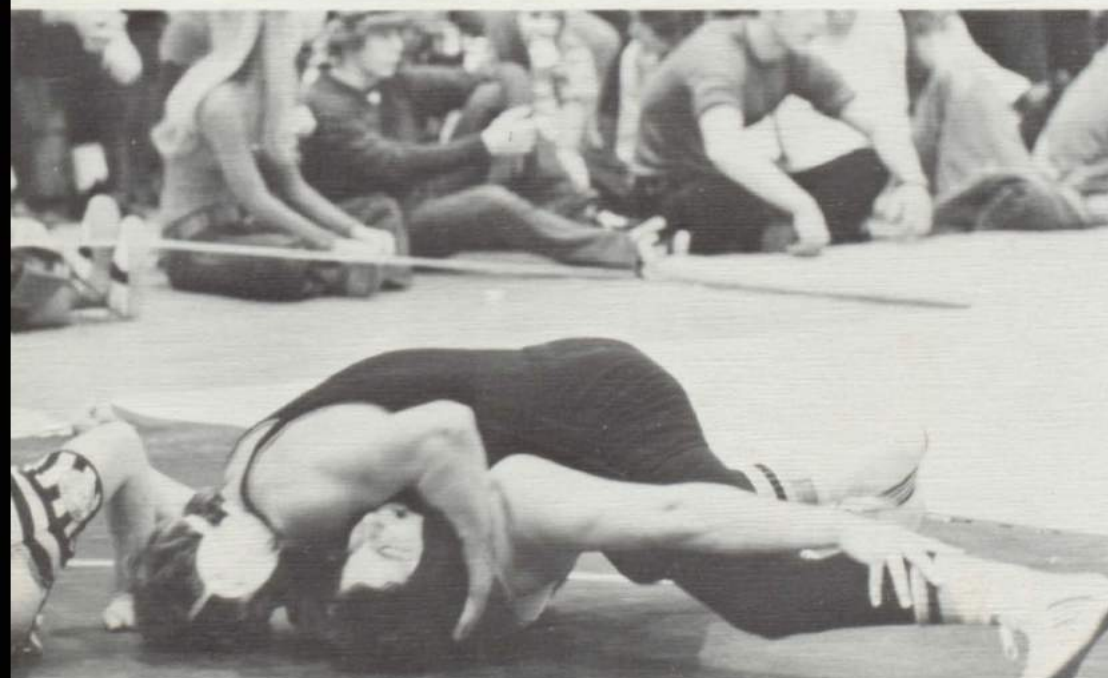

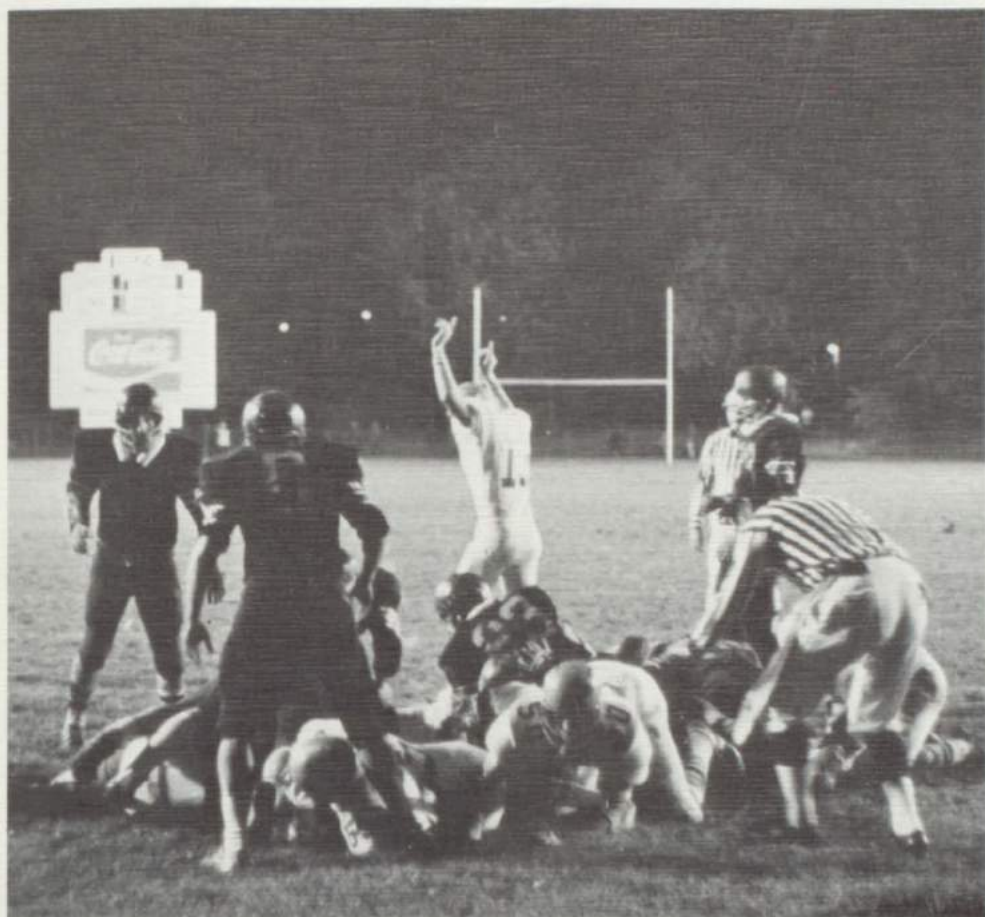

Today's Townie is a Big Man on Campus-minus the campus. In an era when greasers are past and hippies are passé, the townie has emerged as a strong social force. Younger townies form the gazebo set and count Falls Theatre as major entertainment, while their older cohorts frequent the Baskin strip and occasionally spin on over to Spinner's.

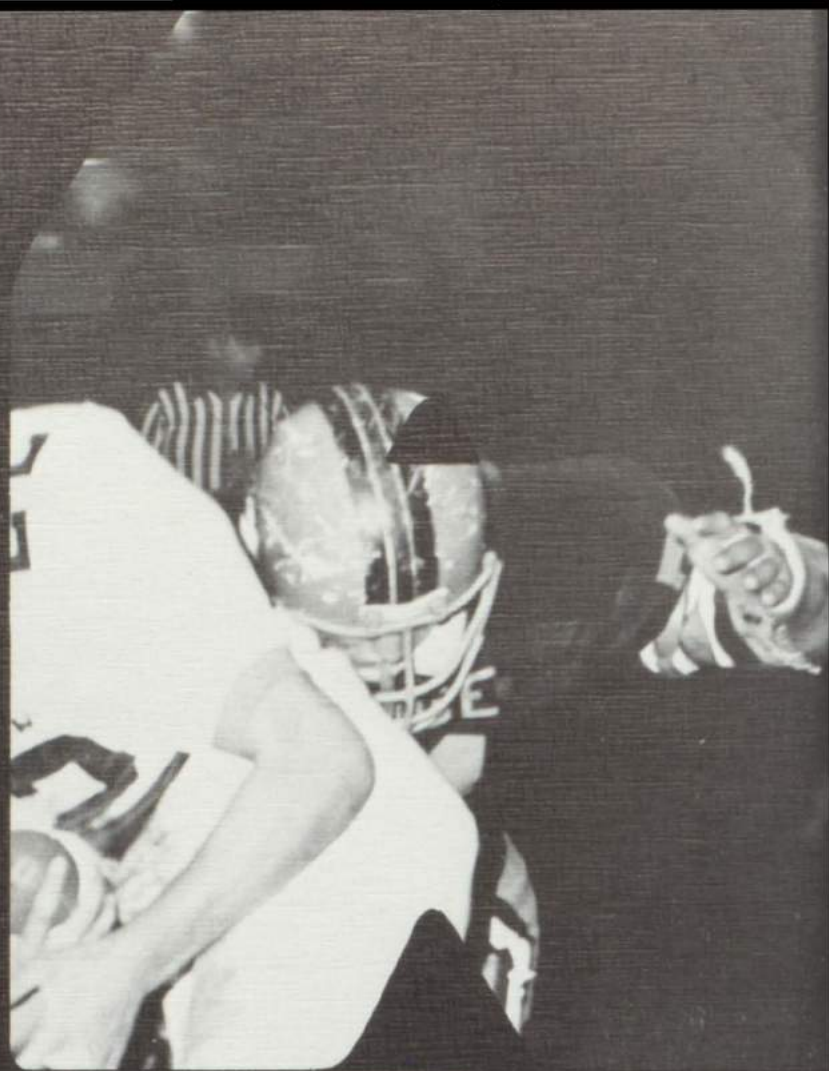

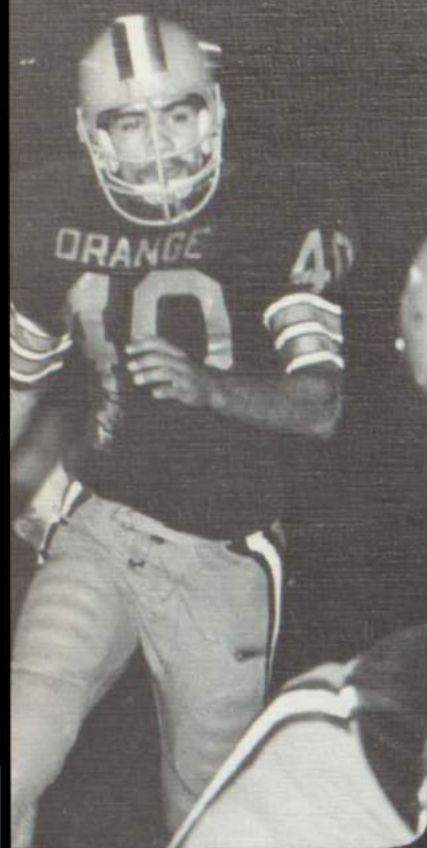

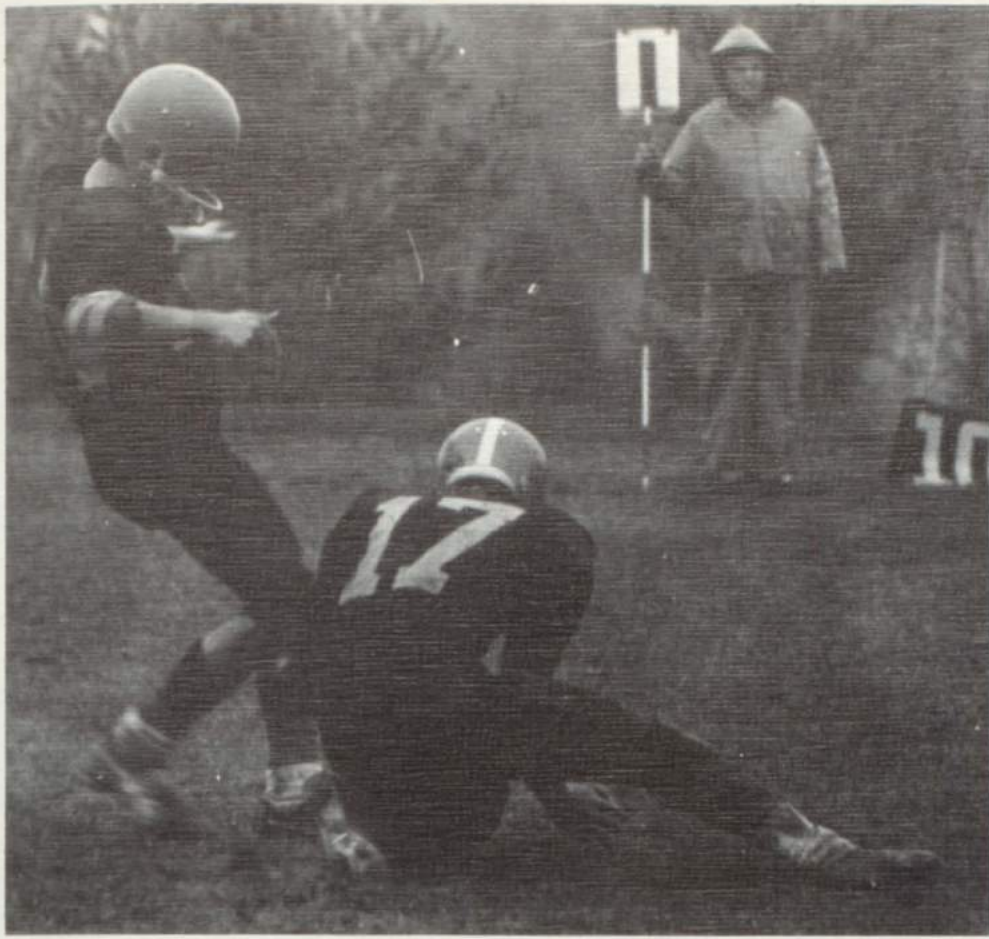

COMPETITION

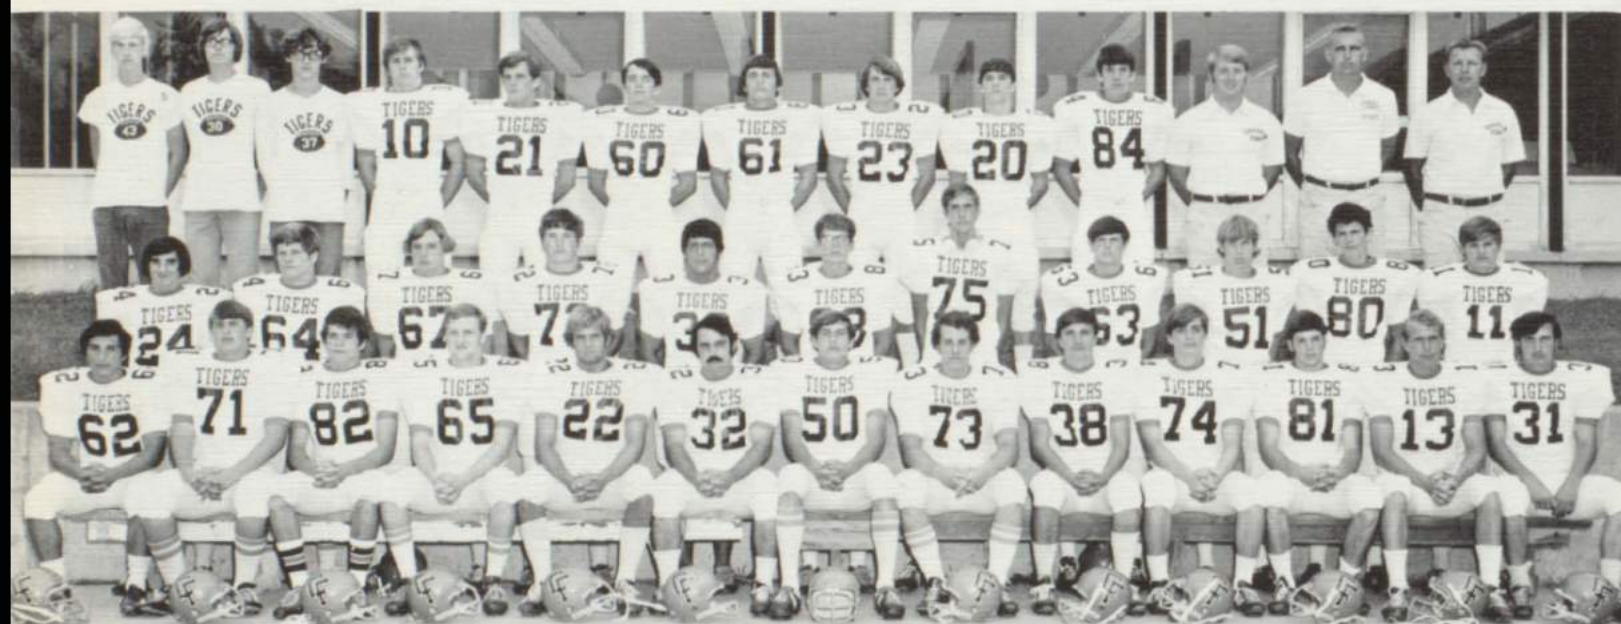

Football

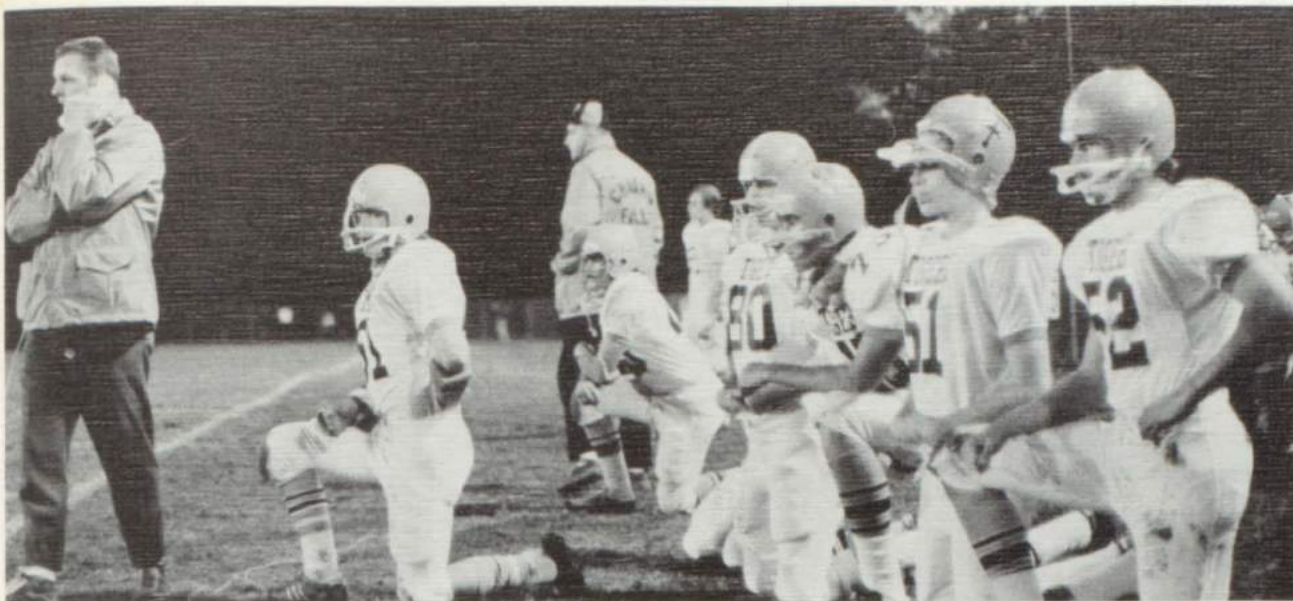

Varsity Football

The team attributes their success to head Coach John Piai, Greater Cleveland Coach of the Year. Defense held the opposition to 17 points, lowest in the Cleveland area, while Offense had the highest point output in the C.V.C. Eight players were named to the all-conference team. Preparations for the games were highlighted by Coach Maher's gasser drills, bear crawls, and up-downs. Pep talks included Coach Dean's famous phrase, "These guys are gonna stick you!"

Three away games weren't bad for starters but the big surprise was the arrival of Solon's Varsity Team; in J.V. uniforms! Mr. Piai's challenge to our manhood came on a closely following Monday, but the biggest rivalry in the C.V.C. turned out to be our offense against our defense. Becker's beauty sleep did not seem to hurt the team in the Chardon game, but it would have helped if Tom had remembered his shoes. This years record was good but if the team could only move the ball the way Atkinson's moves the bull, we would be unbeatable.

The J.V. Basketball team once again tied Solon for the league championship. The team held many highlights: Tallion, Champlin and Kinsle with behind the back passes; Rowan and McWilliams with their daily one-on-one championship; and Phend who for another year had a reason not to play. Despite these oddities the team faired well and fell only to Solon and Willoughby.

Freshmen Wrestling

Intramurals

Dressed in sloppy sweatshirts, baggy sweatpants, and flappy sneakers, the Girls Cross Country Team members often look less than feminine. They can be seen running through the streets of Chagrin on brisk wintry days with only their hair as a testimony to their womanhood, and their clownlike outfits drawing the attention of motorists. When the season is over, and the girls discard their sweatsuits for normal clothes, they are no longer comic figures and each is proof that running really does keep you in shape.

Girls' Cross Country

One of the most hard working and most unrecognized sports is Girls Basketball. These female athletes practice many hours to prepare for their games, but this is by far the least difficult aspect of their sport. Much tougher are getting the use of the gym, finding an opponent, and above all else, trying to coax a few friends to act as spectators.

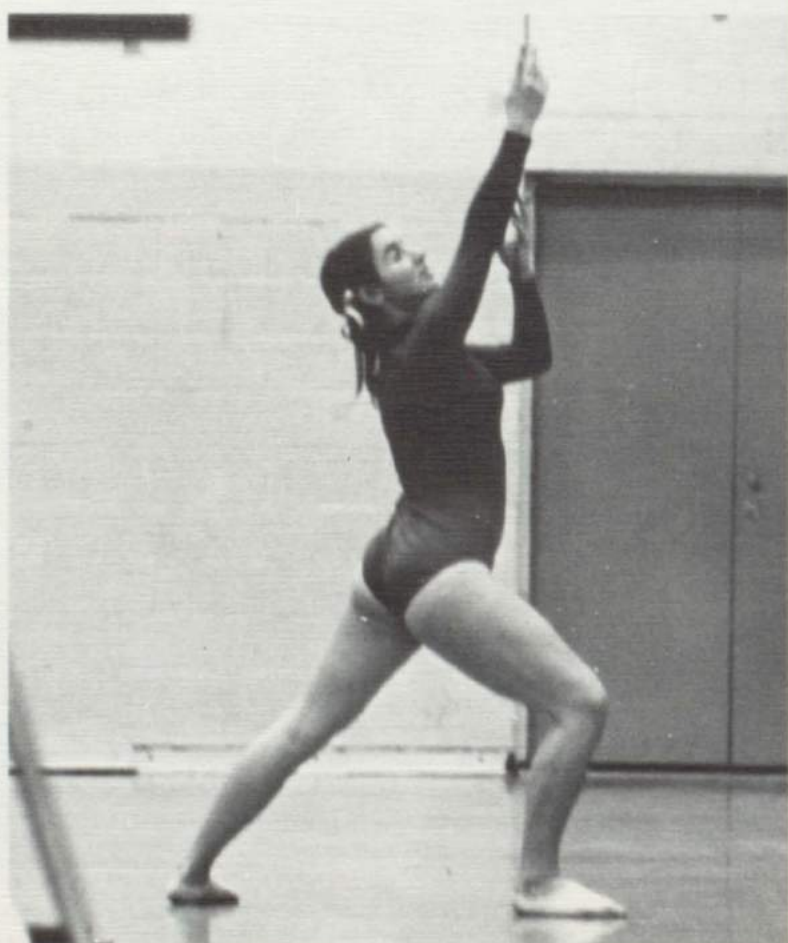

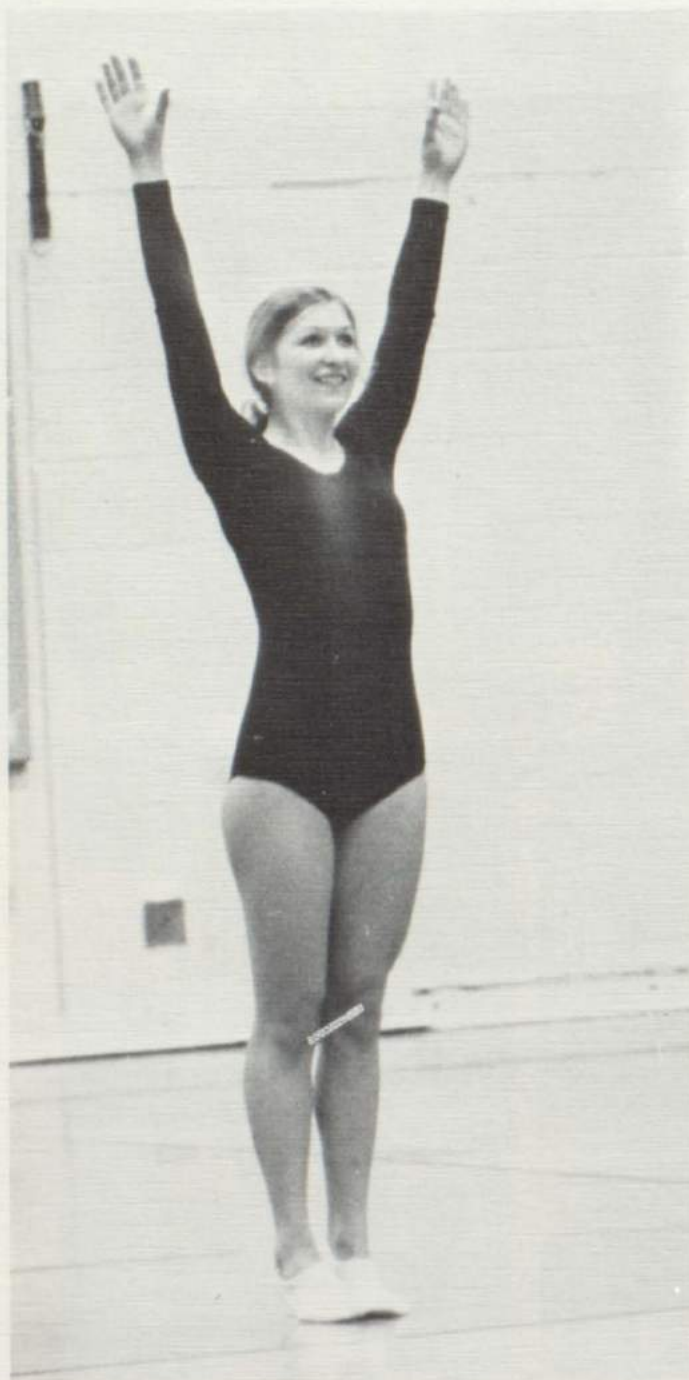

Girls' Basketball

Gymnastics Team

In its first year of competition, the Girl's Gymnastic Team became the C.V.C. champs, and won the Chagrin Invitational, defeating eight schools by a large margin. Originating new activities creates an excellent sponsor - member relationship for as the Coaches will admit, they often knew less than the students.

Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders

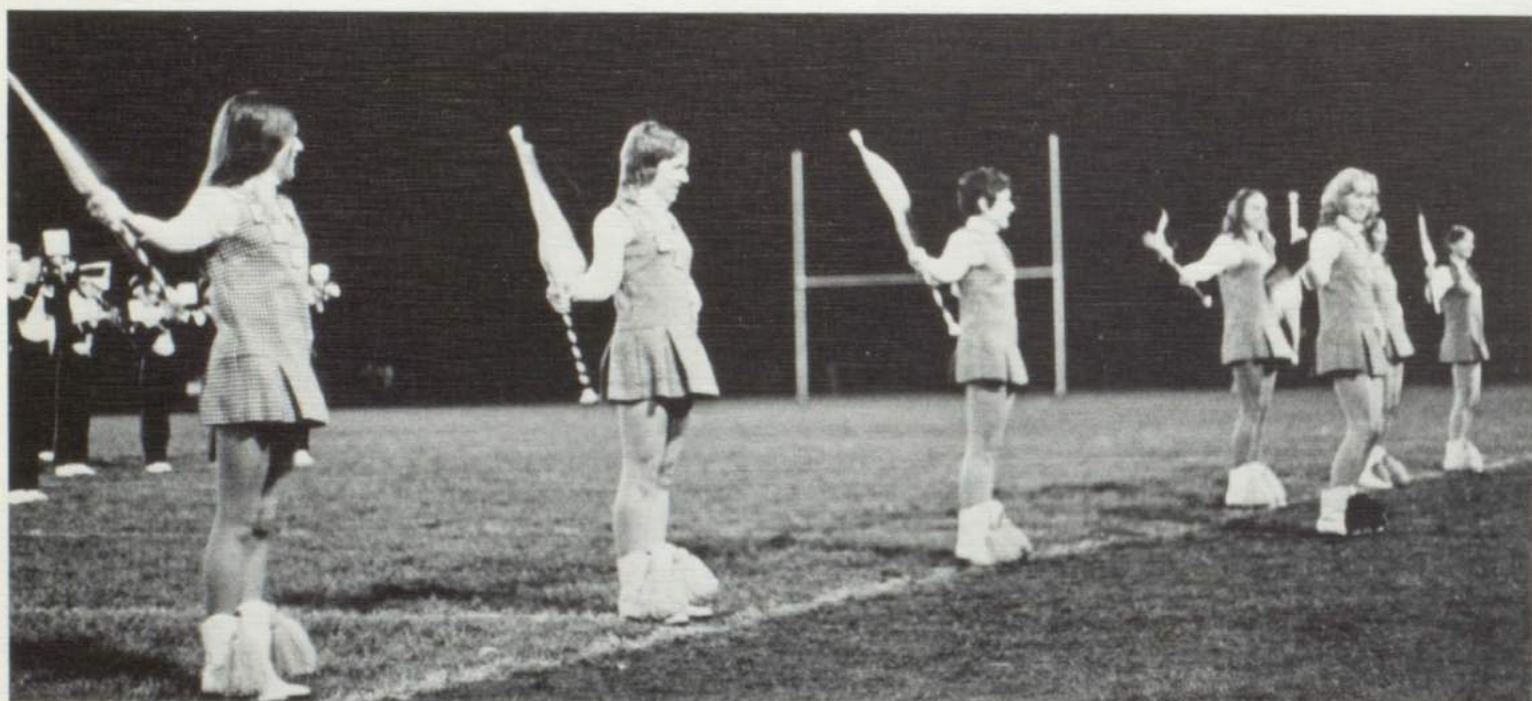

Majorettes And Flagtwirlers

When you're wearing a "pumpkin suit" and everyone calls you "Clowns," it is harder to smile and stay together, especially if the routine was thought up just a few hours before. And Sworan never did seem to know which routine we were supposed to be doing. Then there were problems with dropping batons, lost pom-poms and trying to make Stern serious. With dinner before the game and Manners after it and all the fooling around in between it is surprising that we did our routines as well as we did.

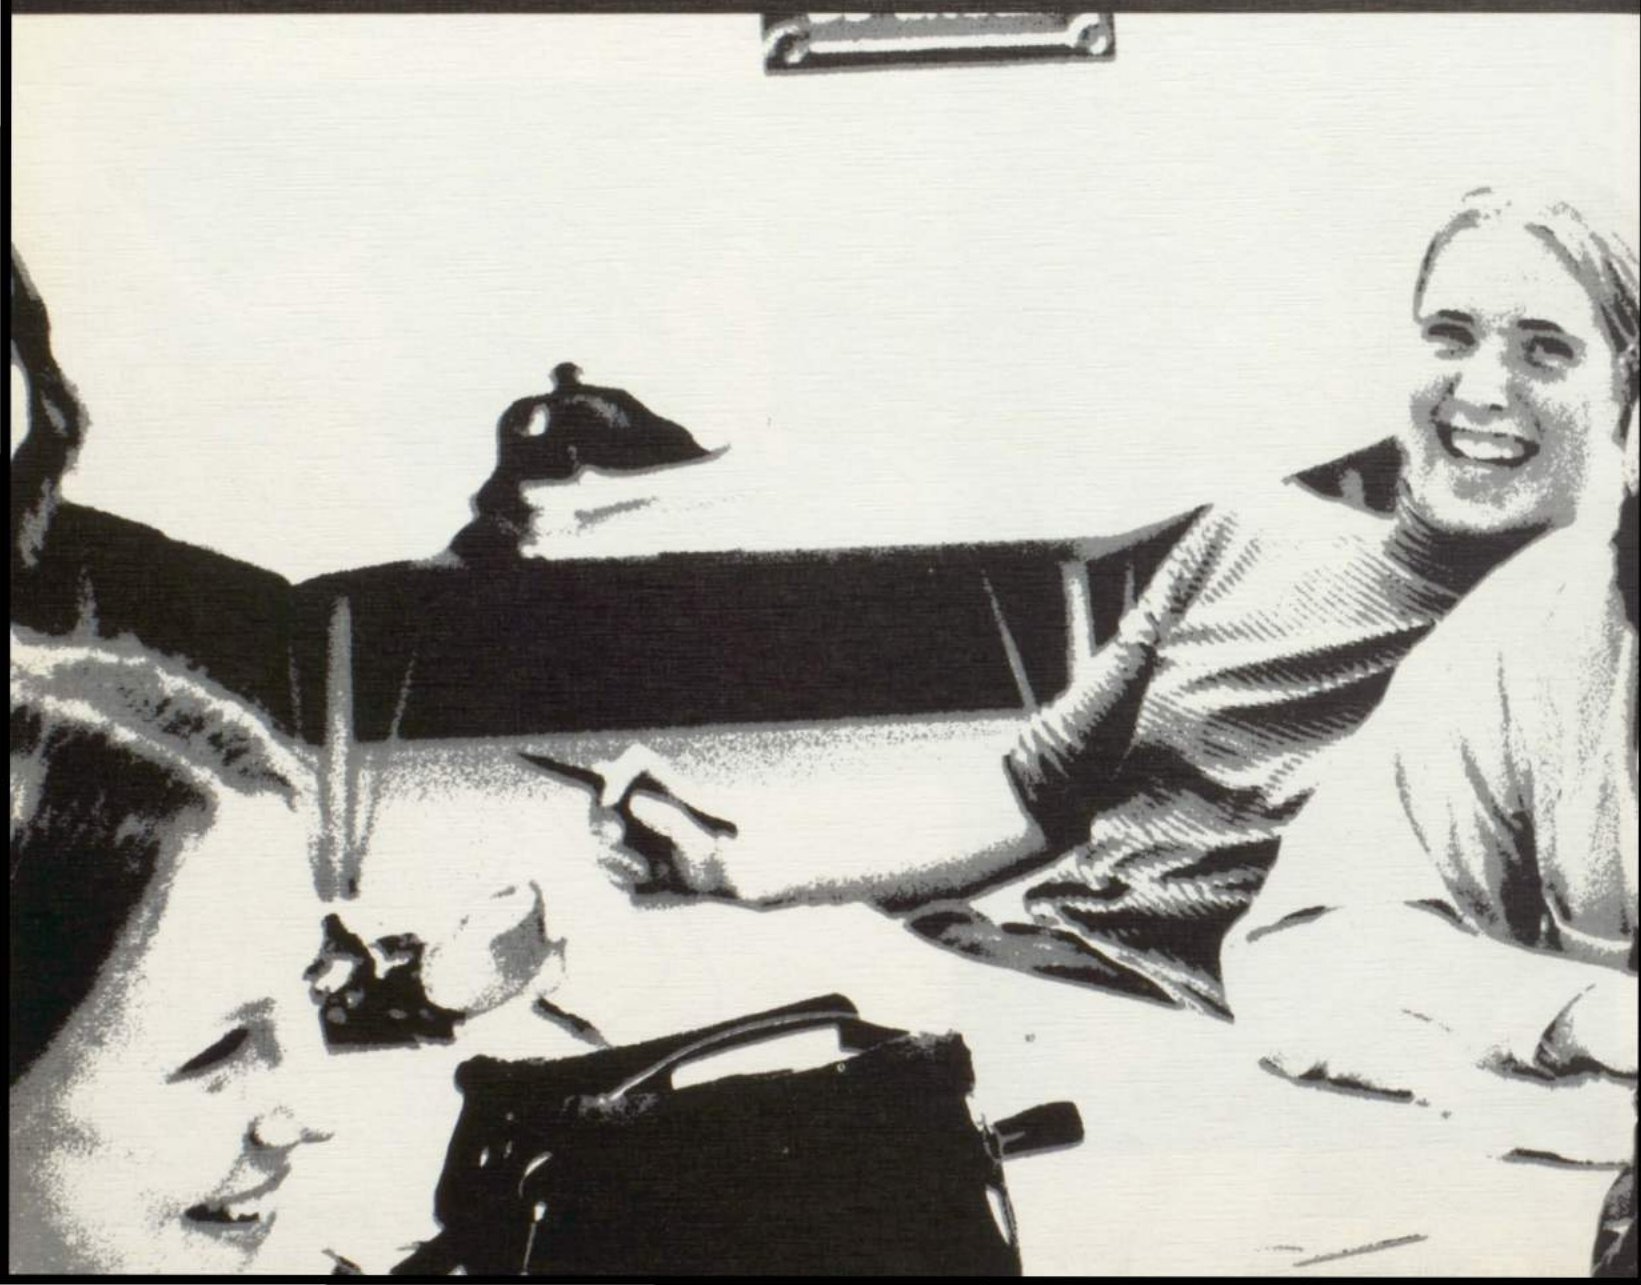

FLAGTWIRLERS AND MAJORETTES, FRONT ROW: T. Parks, C. Stern, C. McFarland, J. Butler (Head Flagtwirler), D. Sworan (Head Majorette), C. Esper. 2ND ROW: C. Edick, J. Geil, S. Oliver, A. Sipos, K. Takatch. 3RD ROW: R. Falasco, T. Saurman, B. Falasco, T. Gluf, N. Stern, C. Hoffman, J. Thomas.

What is a flaggie? Mostly someone who practices and argues and then practices some more . . . Every first period and Thursday night. It's a challenge to put together a routine good enough to perform in front of a thousand or so people; and the reject songs we get to twirl to don't help much. It really is fun and exciting, though. At the very least, it's a free game every week.

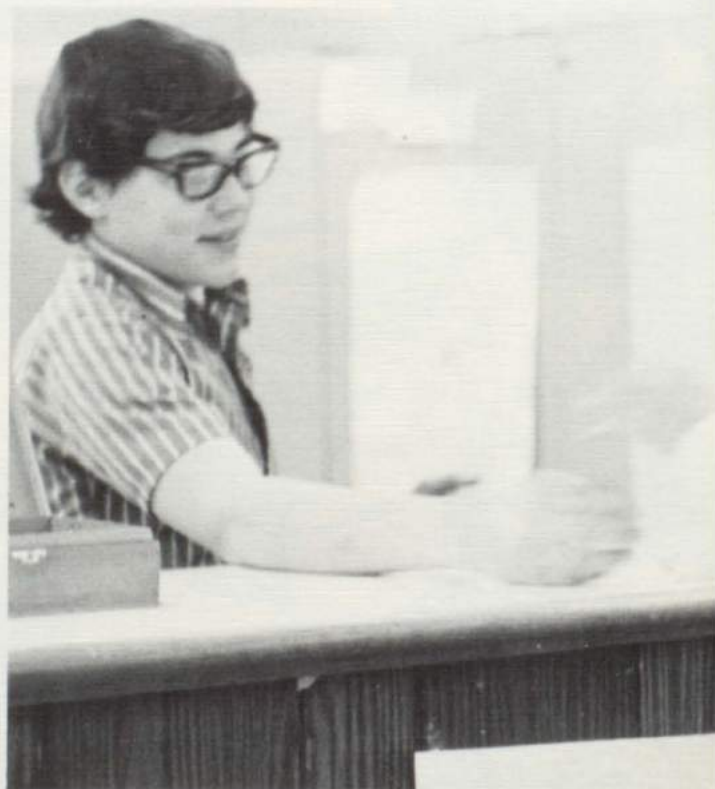

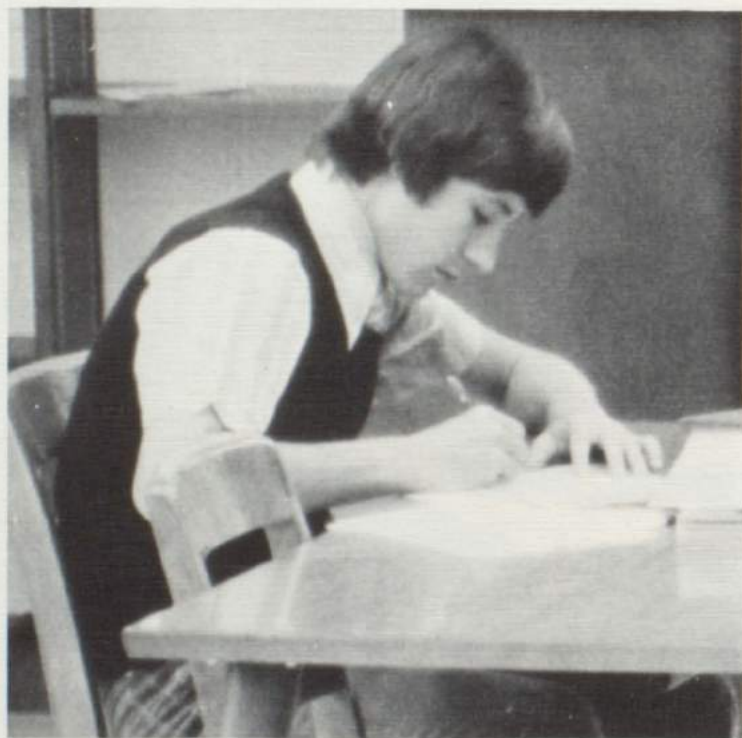

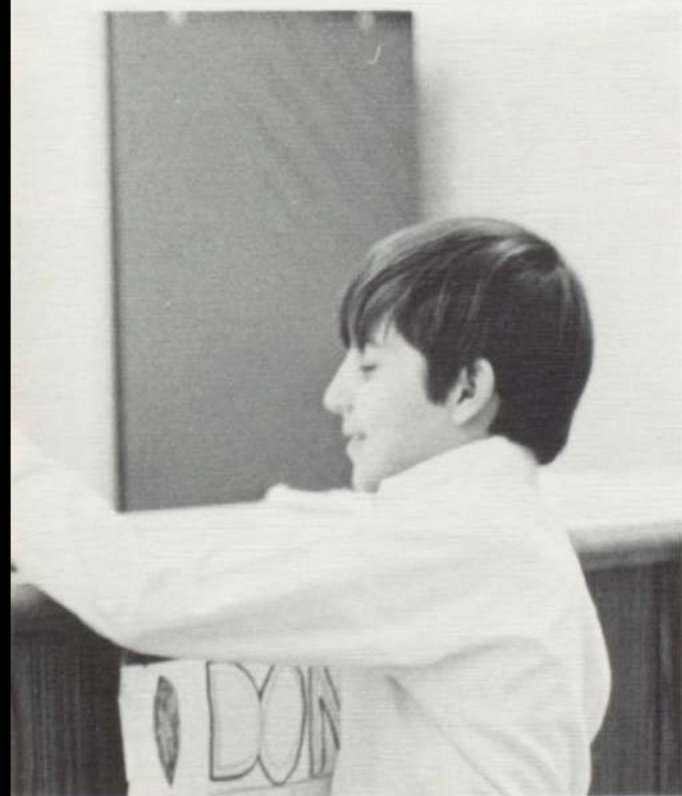

LEARNING

Candid

Administration

This year's chief administrators, Mr. Gadosh and Mr. Richmond, deserve a tremendous amount of credit for the advancements that have been made in the school. Radically, new methods of instruction and such ideas as "The First Day" must be credited to these two educators. Every attempt has been made to involve the students in the school and to make the administration a sounding block for the student ideas. The effect has been a whole new atmosphere at the school with many of the old tensions removed. We, the students, can only thank these two fine educators.

Science

Whether filling the halls with smoke, making ripples in a little tank of water, or going on a "nature walk" the science department proved itself to be in full operation this year. These signs demonstrated that although no new courses were added this year the biology, chemistry and physics classes are constantly making advancements on today's technology.

History Department

Like the English Department, history courses this year took on a new format. The students were given the option to study specific areas of interest ranging from education in the United States to Humanities. Field trips, such as the trip to see McGovern, headed by Mrs. Kaiser's government classes add to student interest.

English Department

With courses in everything from Science fiction to Humanities, the English department, for the first time, gives the student a choice of topics. So instead of a year of Faulkner and Hemingway, it is now possible to take four or more nine week courses in an area of personal interest. This quest for student involvement has taken a lot of the drudgery out of the requirement of four years of English.

Foreign Language Department

Dancing the Polka in the German classes, playing Monopoly in foreign languages and individualized studies have always been favorites of language students, but this year the department went one step further. Mr. Gerhardt's students may still enjoy their "spieltags" but in the French and Spanish classes it is now possible to complete two years of study in one year by completing the adequate number of "laps." Each student may now work at his own speed and make foreign languages studies enjoyable.

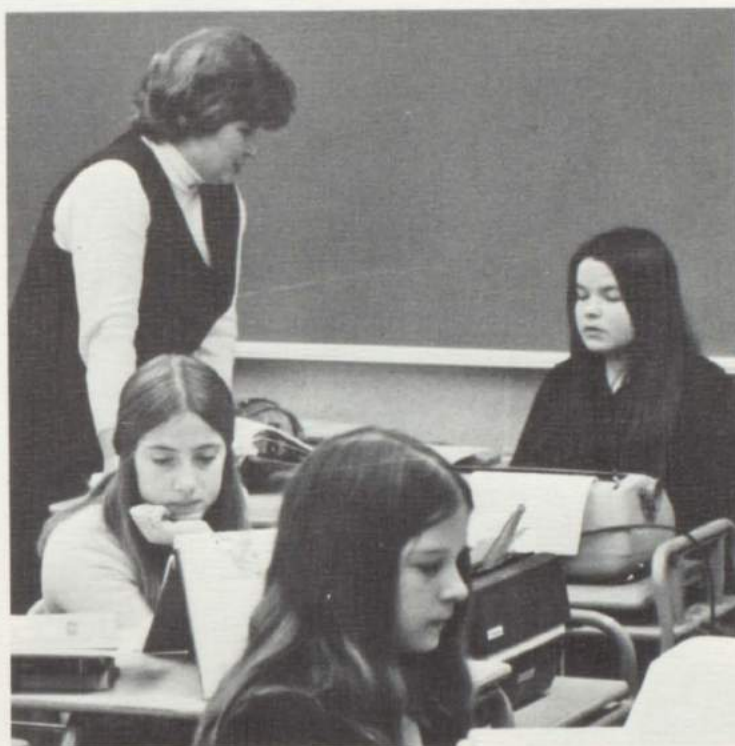

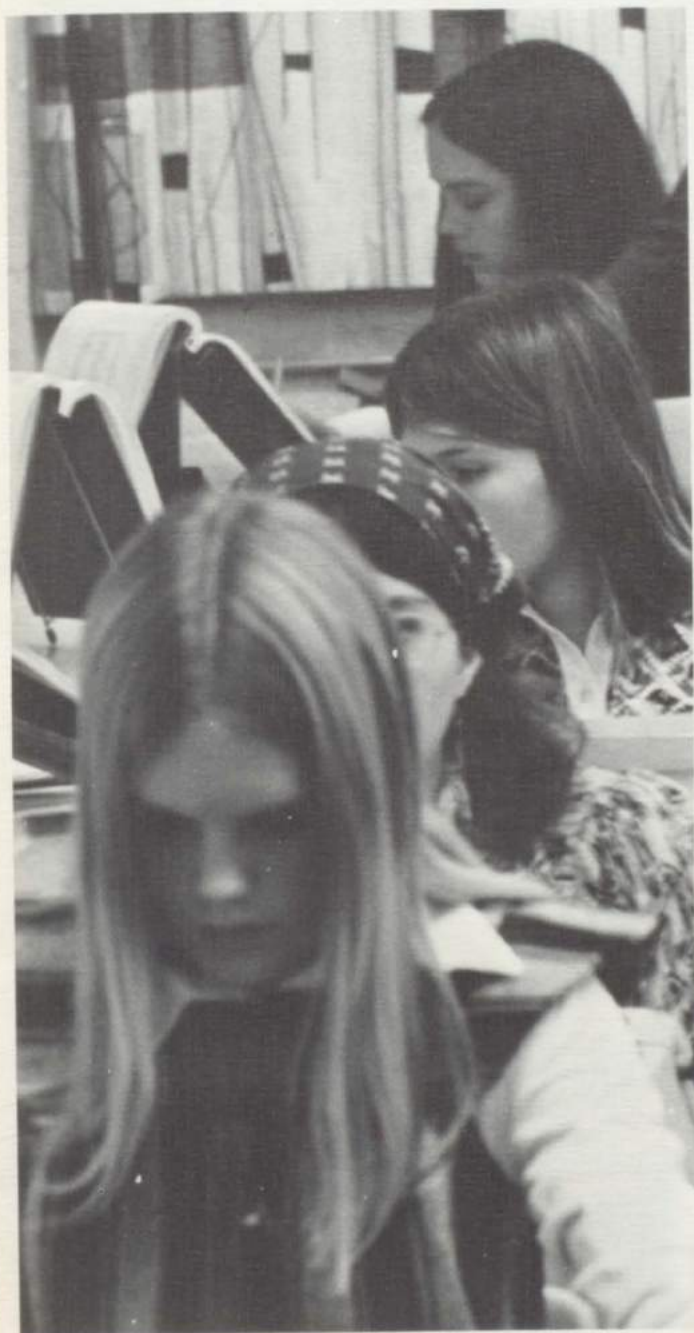

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT, FRONT ROW: Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Daubert. 2ND ROW: Mrs. Klingensmith, Mr. Pepper, Mrs. Colignon, Mr. Gerhardt.

Math Department

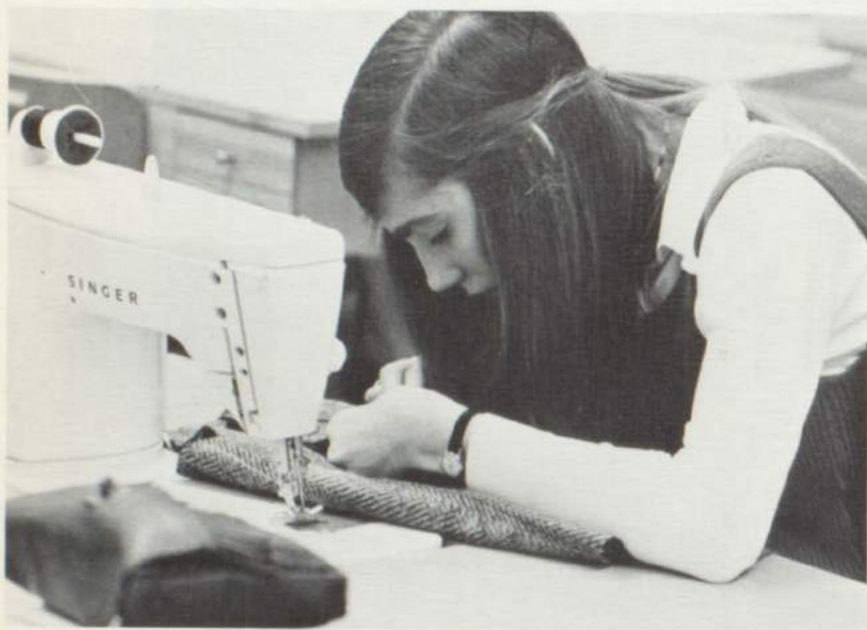

Business

Home-Ec

Home Ec has its routine like any other class; critiques, quizzes, and grades are all common. Sewing a project or cooking a new recipe can be surprisingly demanding, however (and so, unfortunately, can Miss Morris). Sometimes the only people brave enough to eat what we cook are the teachers with an uncanny ability to sniff their way into the classroom.

Shop

Shop is not a course to get an easy 'A'; it's a place to learn a real skill. First year students make useful objects like cutting boards and jewelry boxes, while the more advanced student works more independently and even works on such way-out projects as a log-splitter. An if class ever threatens to become dull, Mr. Fry always livens it up with a joke of his own style.

D.C.T. - O.W.E.

The O.W.E./D.C.T. program offers on the job experience to all those seeking business careers. Led by an instructor who appears more a friend than a teacher, the course supplies training that provides skills immediately applicable in the business world.

Choir

The choir rates as one of a kind. Where else can you find a director with a whistle, a bass in the tenor section, and an alto who thinks she's a soloist? Waiting for buses bothers everyone, but what other group gets excused absences four days in one week!? Despite privileges and peculiarities, the choir is always busy and in general confusion. For although the choir can sing like angels it has been said that they can't act like them

Band

Band supplies an outlet for those with talent but it also offers constant humiliation. Rain on every football night, penguin suits at concerts, squeaky clarinet solos and playing second fiddle to the choir all stood in the way of the band's reputation. However, under the direction of Doc Nickel and with inspiration from the midget bass drummer the Band managed to receive a standing ovation.....once.

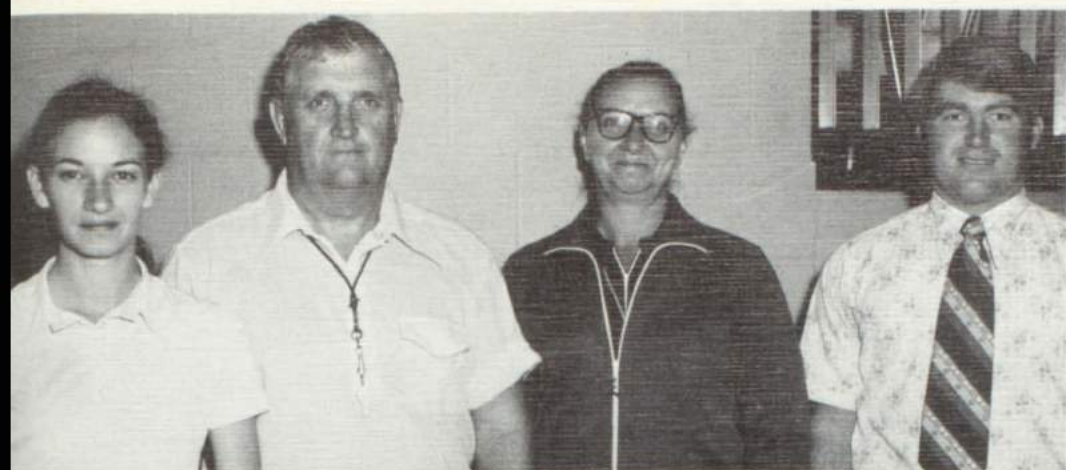

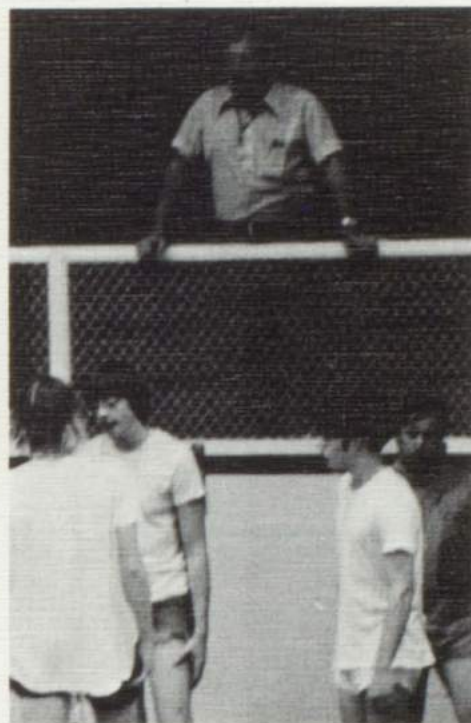

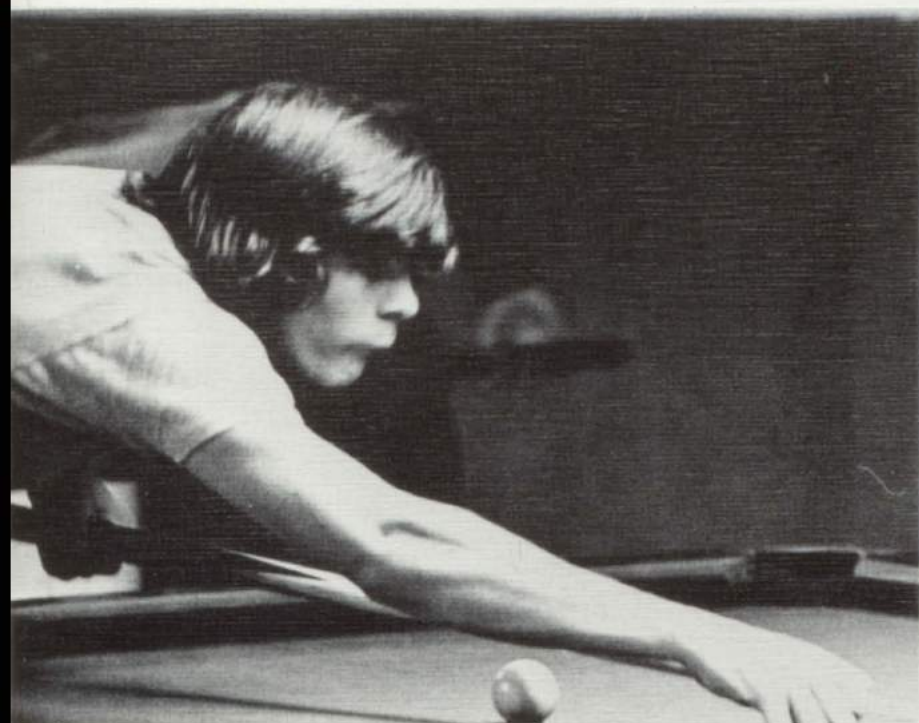

Art

Cries of "where's Beulah?" echoed throughout the art room, as the art teachers also wondered "where have all the 4th year students gone?" And what is that strange smell coming from the kiln? Could it be wood??

Gym

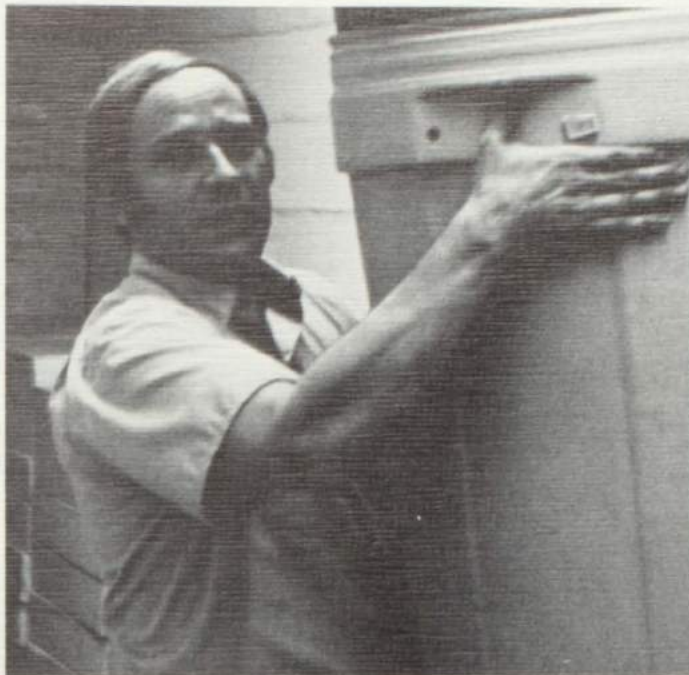

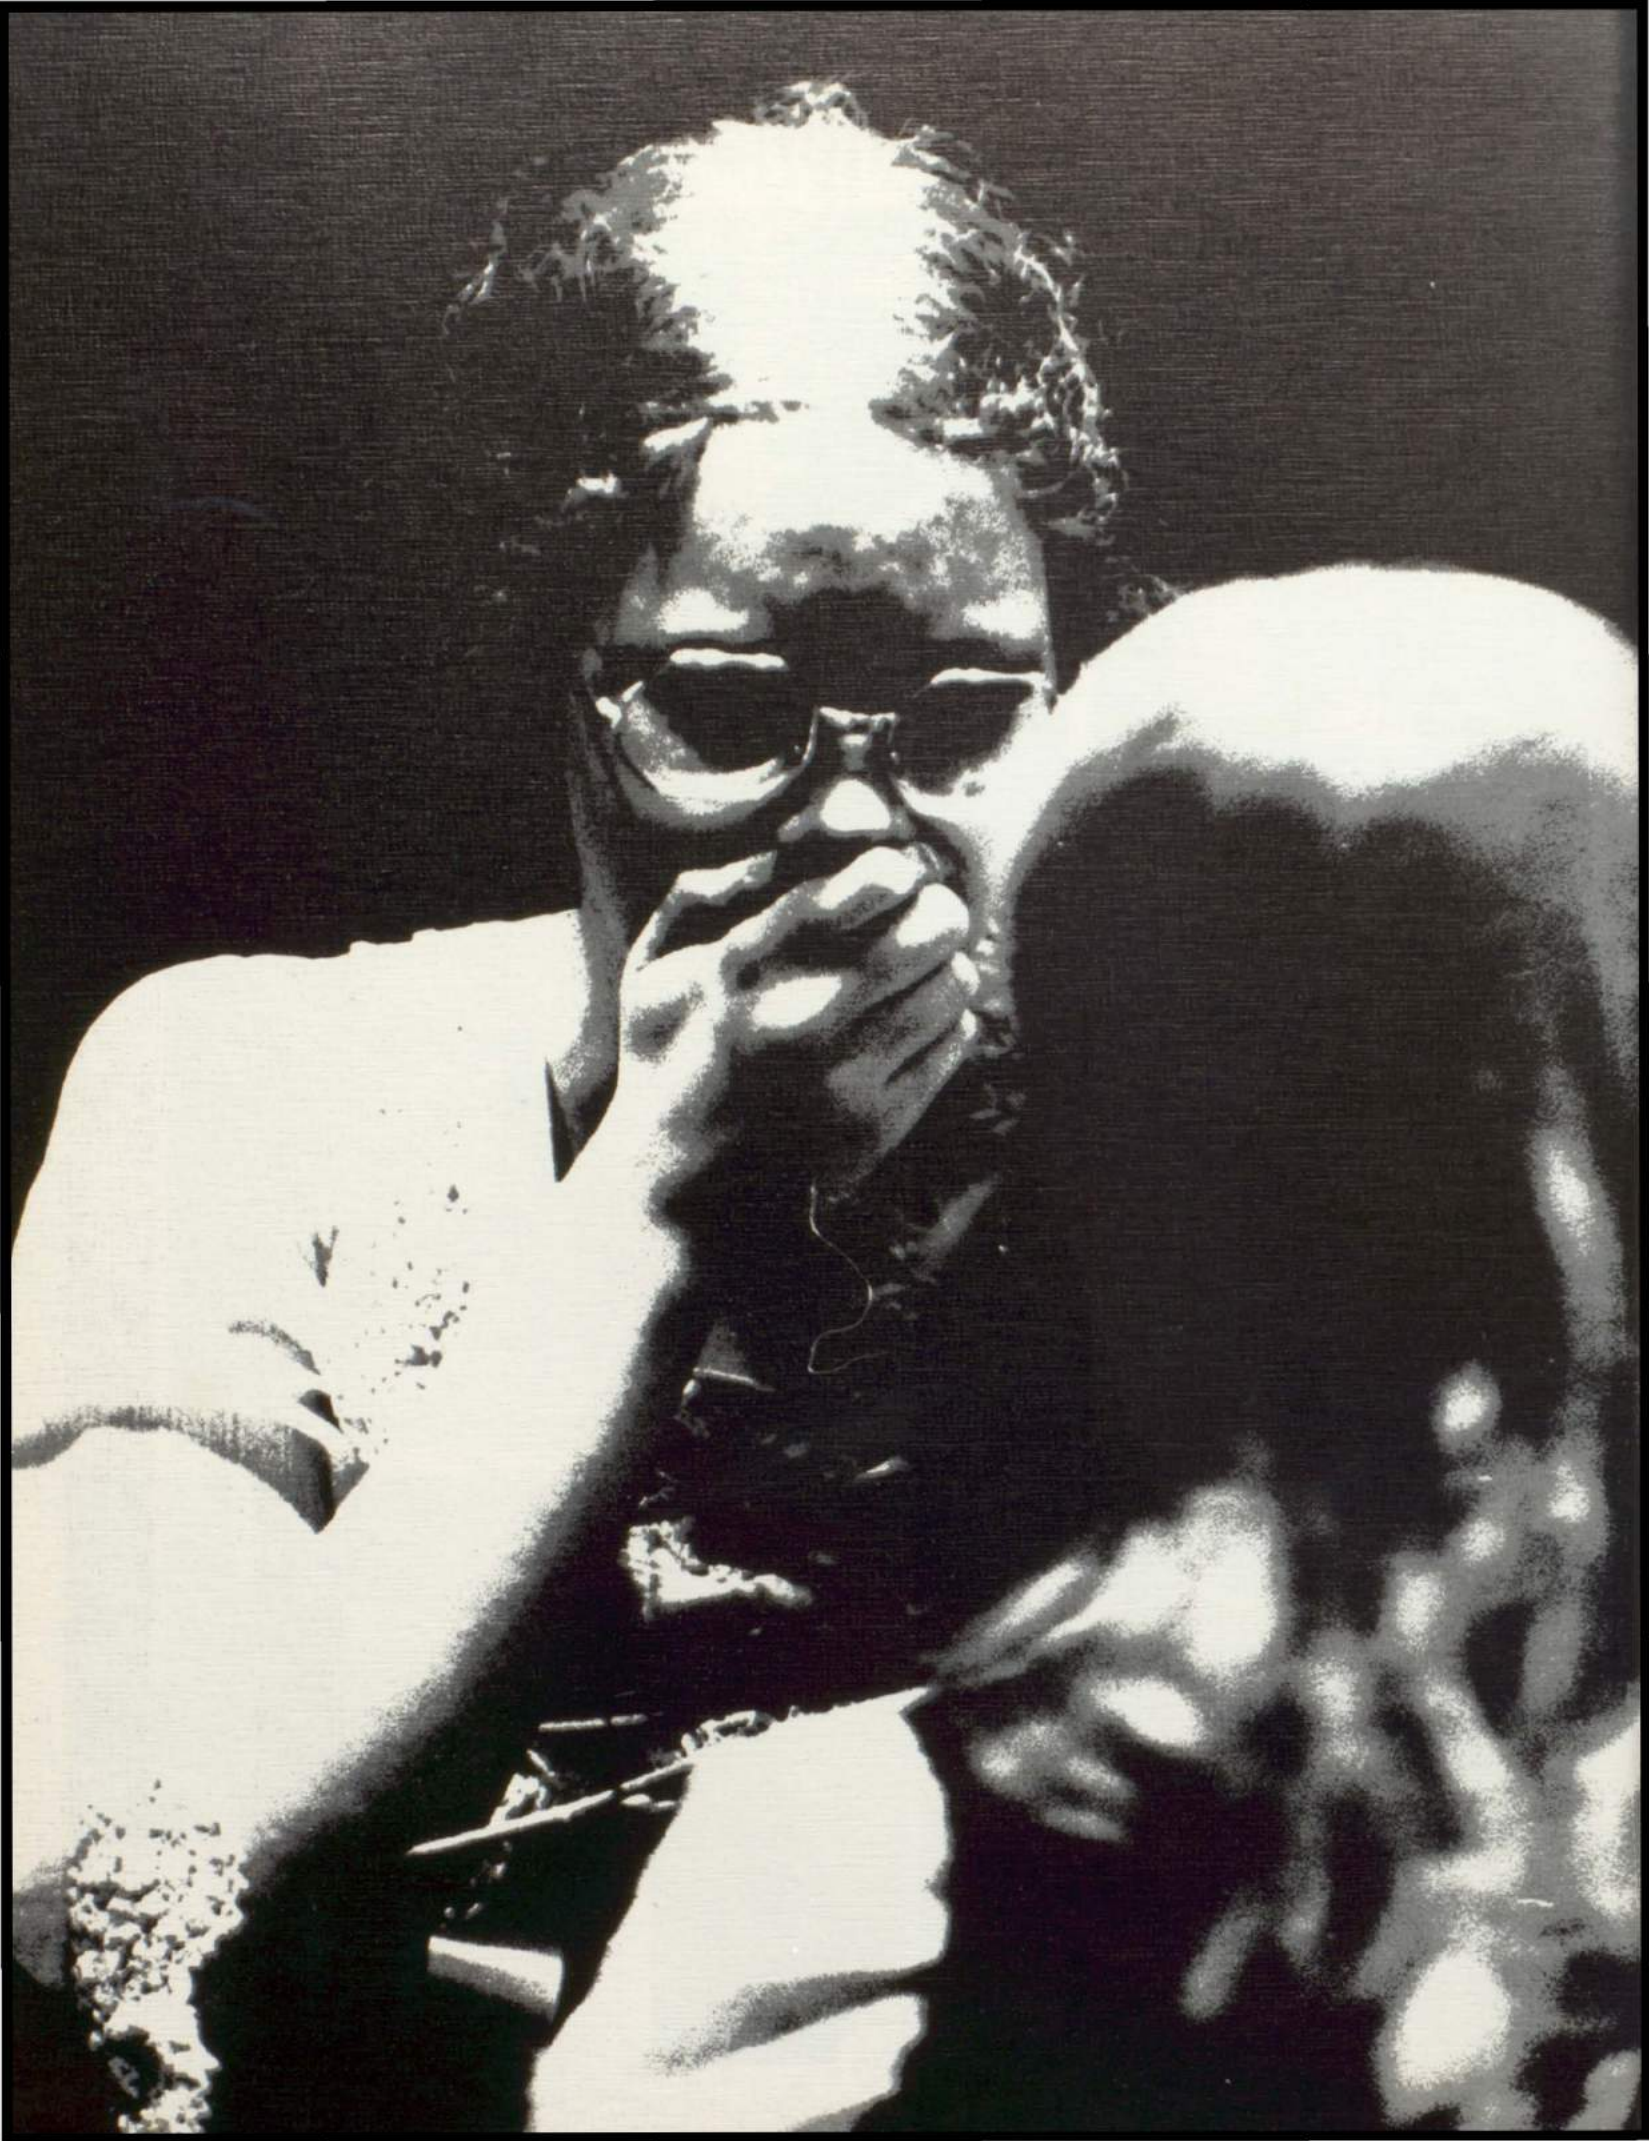

Study Resources

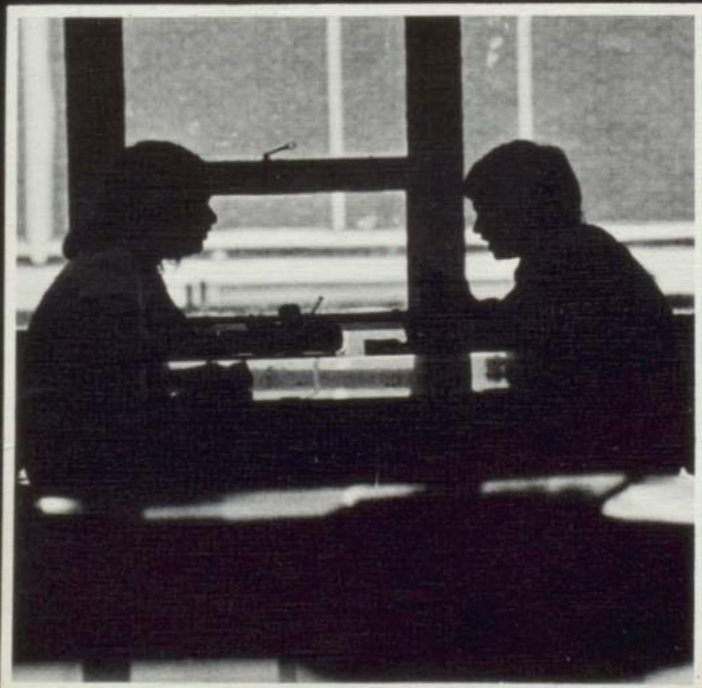

Finding a quiet place to study can be a challenge at C.F.H.S. A chat in the commons, for example, might be interrupted by a sophomore coke fight. The library, of course, is more restful, although the usual friendly bantering between librarians and students has been known to erupt into more vocal confrontations. Still, the library is always a good bet . . . as long as you don't get caught doing homework there. The really lucky student is allowed to work in the quietest area of all-The Jug.

CHRISTOPHER HOWITZ

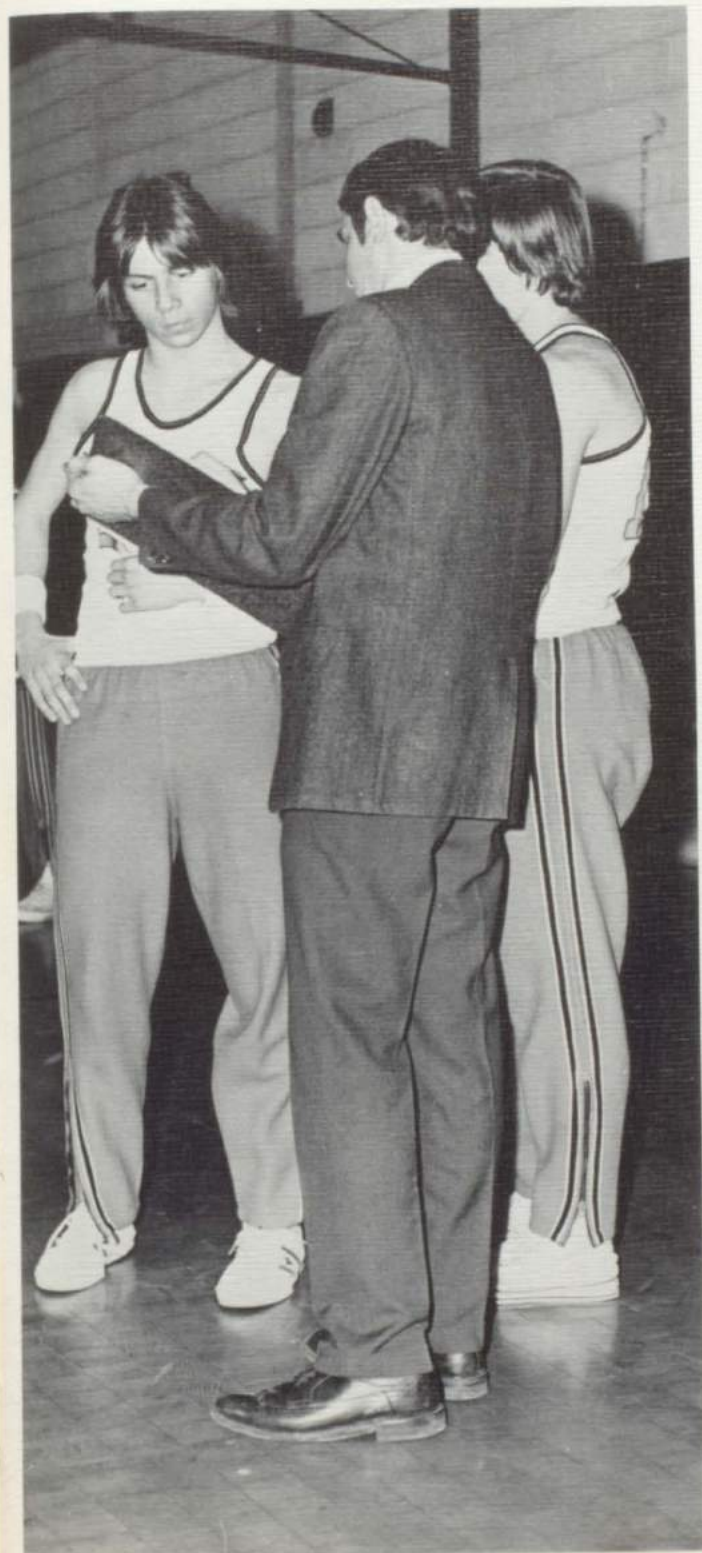

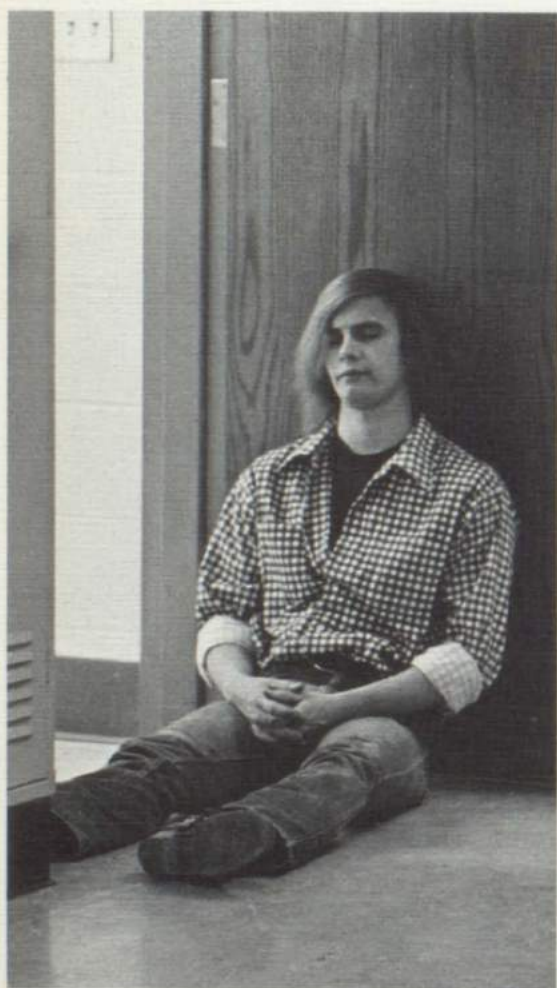

The shock and the tragedy of a first death among a group which has virtually grown up together runs deep. Friendship was a vital part of Dave's life; the loss his friends have experienced is great. As classmates since The Little Red Schoolhouse, we are disturbed by the sad injustice that a life so warm and positive should be ended.

Yet far more important than Dave's death was his life. David's parents described him as "a boy who loved life", and his passion for living was not a passive one. Out of doors he became independent, hard working and utterly in his element. The classroom paled beside the excitements of sailboat racing and cross country bicycling. Persistence showed when he worked on his van or truck; he was under them as often as in them.

David Reiss: a boy who loved friends, achievement, the beauty of nature and . . . life.

A Note from the Editor:

First thanks go to five especially hard workers: Denise Blazas, Scott Ogden, Michelle Kinstle, Nancy Varnum, and Jay Larsen.

Barb Duff, as assistant editor, was invaluable and far more organized than I. Kurt Rommel, copy editor, showed a remarkable ability to remain clever and well-informed, even under pressure, and Liz Akins as business manager did us all a real service. And my very sincere thanks and admiration to the section heads: Jim McSherry (Involvement), Mel Corcoran (Community Involvement), Scott Ogden (Competition), Denise Blazas (Learning), Mick McGinnis (Underclassmen), Rich Olewiler (Seniors), and Nancy Varnum (Ads).

Photographs are the stuff of which yearbooks are made, and we are indebted to photographers Jay Larsen, Eric Zaboly, Steve Tenney, Todd Wetzig, Mark Vedder, and Peter Whyman.

Final thanks to Mr. Fry and Mr. Kaschak who stood behind us, to the students who bought the book and to the advertisers who helped finance it, and to the staff which created it.

Marianne Takas

Congratulations

"When a man gets down on his knees to pray, there are really only three things he can say: 'Thank you', 'I'm sorry', and 'Please'. And those are what I'm saying to you today.

"Thank you. Thank you for inviting me to your school; thank you for spending this very special day with me; and most of all, thank you for making me apart of your lives.

"I'm sorry. Sorry that this day can't go on forever, and that life isn't always what it should be. I am sorry that there will be times when you will be hurt or angry or when you are treated unfairly—times when it will take great courage to go on as a whole person.

"And lastly, please. Please don't let it all end here. Don't forget tomorrow what you've lived today. Let this day open up for you a new, more meaningful life—a life with love for all."
